

BLOCKADE OF BRITISH WATERS DECREED AS NAZIS CONTINUE DEVASTATING RAIDS

NEW ENEMY BOMBERS NOW USED DESCRIBED AS FLYING WARSHIPS

Adolf Hitler warned the world today the British Isles are under complete blockade and that Germany would not be responsible for destruction of neutral vessels or lives within the besieged waters where war is being fought at full blast.

The proclamation of the complete blockade and warning to all neutrals was broadcast by the official German radio as new and more powerful Nazi bombers roared across the English Channel bent on destruction of Britain's harbor facilities, airports and plants producing war supplies.

Some nations like the United States and Argentina, the German proclamation said, have long since regarded the waters around England as a war zone and have forbidden their ships, airplanes and citizens to enter them.

Germany, the proclamation continued, has repeatedly warned other neutral states and was now repeating that warning.

As the Nazis resumed their daylight raids on the island kingdom, time bombs dropped in yesterday's great raid caused delayed explosions in London's southwestern suburbs.

The British retaliated for the assault on the Thames estuary and the London area by counter-attacking Germany. The Air Ministry announced the RAF did considerable damage last night to a plant at Lina, near Leipzig, used for the production of oil from coal, and to other "important" objectives.

DNB, official German news agency, describing the new Nazi bombers used against England as veritable flying battleships of great capacity and heavier armament, said their sides bristle with machine guns, and they carry more potential destruction than anything ever previously flown by man.

As the Nazis resumed their daylight raids on Wales and the south coast, the British announced German plane losses on Thursday and yesterday's to at least 180, and yesterday's to 75, while their own yesterday were 22.

The German High Command, said central England and the harbors of Cardiff, Wales, Newport and Bristol had been successfully bombed and a British destroyer sunk off the Isle of Wight.

The high command said the British lost 89 planes yesterday, 59 of them in air fights during the mass attacks on Britain, 28 destroyed on the ground and 7 destroyed by anti-aircraft fire, as well as 22 barrage balloons. They conceded the loss of 31 of their own.

Germany said Britain had not been subjected to a real "large-scale attack" and that the worst was yet to come. The present attacks simply are a "strong armed reconnaissance," Germany said.

The German night raiders attacked a wide area in Wales, and two Welsh towns reported casualties. Two bombs struck the main square in one town, damaging several houses.

Britain charged officially that the Germans had "deliberately" attacked the residential town of Southbourne yesterday evening, causing casualties. Dive bombers struck the south coast resort, although in a defense area with children removed and travel restricted, was said by the British to have no military objectives.

The Germans, following up their early blasting at the environs of London Friday, reiterated that their purpose was complete control of the air over Britain.

"There'll be no stopping now," many German commentators intimated that the weakening of Britain's air defenses already was

WINDSOR GIVEN OVATION AS HE ACCEPTS OFFICE

Former King Edward Promises His Best Efforts to Help Colony Reconcile Its Local Interests With Changed Conditions Imposed by War

PLEDGES KING LOYALTY

Nassau, Bahamas, Aug. 17. (AP)—The Duke of Windsor took the oath of office as governor of the Bahamas Islands today and promised his best efforts to help the colony reconcile its local interests with changed conditions imposed by the war.

The former King Edward and his American-born Duchess, the former Wallis Warfield of Baltimore, Md., were given a great ovation when they appeared briefly on a balcony immediately after the inauguration ceremony.

Stepping ashore from the camouflaged vessel which brought them here from Bermuda, the new governor and first lady of the little islands walked through cheering crowds to the nearby legislative council chambers of this colonial capital.

The Duke wore the uniform of a major general, and the Duchess a pink dress under a royal blue wool redingote, with a tiny turban of pearls.

Seated on a dais two steps above floor level, with his wife at his left and one step lower, the Duke mopped his brow repeatedly while he listened to three addresses of welcome and repeated two oaths pledging his loyalty to his brother, King George VI, who succeeded him on the British throne—the throne Edward left so he could wed "the woman I love."

It was stifling hot in the chamber, where only a few high officials and favored spectators could find seats.

Immediately the ceremony was ended, W. C. B. Johnson, speaker of the assembly, led those assembled in a cheer.

For the first time of the morning, the solemn expression on the Duke's face gave way to a smile.

He and the Duchess stepped on the balcony, the Nassau constabulary band played "God Save the King."

The couple then was driven the 12 blocks to government house, their new home. Crowds lined the way and cheered followed the progress of the automobile.

Norwood, N. Y., Aug. 17. (AP)—President Roosevelt, accompanied by military and civil officials, arrived at 12 p. m. (EST) today to begin an inspection tour of First Army maneuvers and confer with Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada.

A 21-gun salute and playing of the Star-Spangled Banner by massed bands and field music sent the president off on an inspection tour of the 1,300-square mile area with Secretary of War Henry L. Turnpike Dedication Date Changed Again

Pittsburgh, Aug. 17. (AP)—Beg pardon, folks, but the tentative date for dedicating the "all-weather" express highway has been set back again.

The third postponement puts the date back to "around October 11." The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce announced. The ceremony had been previously scheduled for July 4, then Labor Day, then about September 15.

The chamber, which is arranging the dedication program, made the announcement upon notice yesterday from Turnpike Commission officials in Harrisburg. No official reason for the change was given.

President Roosevelt told Pennsylvania Democratic leaders at Washington yesterday he would attend the dedication.

Pittsburgh Health Officials Probe Racket In a Campaign Against Adulterated Meats

Pittsburgh, Aug. 17. (AP)—City health officials made a tour of butcher shops today in a campaign against a "racket" based on "ham that ain't ham."

Regular ham was O. K., they said, but they were concerned about the part of the meat that's not ham, but water or gelatin.

Health Director I. Hope Alexander said those substances were being "pumped" into cured meats by certain "unscrupulous marketmen and wholesalers" to give cuts added weight which merely steams away when the meat is cooked.

"A 15-pound ham can be made to weigh 20 pounds, and before it is cooked there is no way for the housewife to tell there is anything wrong," he said. "A six-pound piece of pickled beef can hold four pounds of water, making a total of 10 pounds, and you're cheated out of 40 per cent of the total cost."

Dr. Alexander gave the following advice:

"Weigh your meat before and after you cook it. If the loss in weight is more than 15 per cent, you have been sold adulterated meat."

Harrisburg, Aug. 17. (AP)—Democratic State Chairman Meredith Meyers predicted today that "dissatisfaction over the handling of the Work Projects Administration in Pennsylvania" will be the Democrats' "biggest handicap" in the November election.

"A good many Democrats have been fired and Republicans put on in their places," Meyers said. "That may mean the difference now in our rolling up the vote for Mr. Roosevelt that we did in 1936."

The state chairman returned from a visit to Washington yesterday with a delegation of Pennsylvania Democrats, where he told President Roosevelt this state will cast a majority of between 400,000 and 500,000 votes for him compared to a plurality of 663,000 votes over Alf M. Landon four years ago.

Athens, Greece, Aug. 17.—Reliable sources say the Italian naval attaché apologized to Premier General John Metaxas last night for the bombing attack yesterday on two Greek destroyers, asserting Italian aviators mistook them for British vessels.

The Greek censor, by cutting a telephonic connection with Budapest, prevented further discussion of this point.

Italian authorities said at Rome they were without information concerning the reported bombing of two Greek destroyers by unidentified warplanes or the sinking of Greek merchantmen, and Fascist newspapers refrained from mentioning the incident.

Dies Uncovers Plot to Bring About Strike In Southern California Aircraft Factories

Los Angeles, Aug. 17. (AP)—A list of 1,200 sympathizers obtained from the German-American Bund was declared to contain 900 in Los Angeles county, among them a former sheriff, high school, college and university teachers, aircraft and metal craftsmen, mechanics and oil workers.

Those found in key positions in defense industries will be examined under oath to find out just how deep their sympathies are," said Dies.

Meanwhile, at the request of the Motion Picture Producers Association and the Screen Actors Guild, Dies announced that everyone in the film industry who has been accused of being a Communist or sympathizer will be given a hearing.

"If they do not volunteer before the conclusion of the investigation they will be subpoenaed and required to testify," he added.

Chairman Martin Dies of the congressional committee on Un-American Activities declares he has uncovered a plot to bring about a general strike in southern California aircraft factories, working at capacity on military orders.

Seven aviation plant employees, he reported last night, described the scheme as having a double objective of crippling the national defense program and hindering American aid to Great Britain.

"Communists and Nazis have been working hand-in-hand ever since the Hitler-Stalin accord," Dies declared.

He added that the investigation here is providing more information on Nazi and Communist activity in Hollywood, the shipping industry and aircraft unions than he had obtained in the last two years.

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 17.—(P)—The flag-bedecked home town of Wendell L. Willkie welcomed throngs of visitors in a gala county fair atmosphere today for the official opening of the Republican presidential campaign.

Long before the nominee's special train was due at 12:30 p. m., CST, (1:30 EST), crowds were arriving by all forms of conveyance.

They had two main goals—the big red brick school house where Willkie asked to make a short speech early in the afternoon, and Callaway Park on the edge of town, site of his formal acceptance address.

While awaiting the ceremonies, many of the visitors walked or rode by the freshly-painted white house at 1900 A street, where Willkie was born 48 years ago. It cost 20 cents to go inside. In the yard was a stand—one of hundreds throughout the city—with soda pop, peanuts and popcorn on sale.

Willkie himself, along with his wife and son, Philip, decided to stay until the last minute at Rushville, where they had been visiting since Thursday night. Yesterday had been set aside as a day of rest for the nominee, but he kept busy with two visits to his five farms and a surprise evening call on the newspapermen covering his activities.

The other participants in the notification program were on hand earlier. Representative Charles H. Company "I" Clerk Tells of Camp Life During a Blackout

Lisbon, N. Y., Aug. 15, 1940.

Editor, Times-Mirror, Warren, Penna.

Dear Sir:

Taps have just sounded and not a light in camp. It's a blackout as the regiment is under assault by the enemy. The moon is full tonight and bright enough to read newspaper print.

Company "I" went into battle this morning with other units of the 28th division against the 29th of Maryland and Virginia. It is expected that they will be back in camp tomorrow night or Saturday morning.

Captain Mottern, a reserve officer attached to Company I as mess officer, just finished shaving. The first time in his life he has shaved by moonlight. Privates Jackson and Watson, KP's for the day, are busy peeling spuds for breakfast. They may leave a little hide on, and some worm holes, but then who will care about that? Breakfast is to be served in the field at about 3:00 a. m. before the troops leave the tenting grounds for the second day of this corps problem.

Harry Fish, the second cook who has charge of preparing breakfast, is doing a nice job in spite of the handicap of the blackout.

A plane is roaring overhead and an occasional burst of firing is heard. The anti-aircraft lights are laying low tonight, not wishing to give away their positions.

Until another day, here is one gold-bricking company clerk who is going to hit the hay and let the war take care of itself.

Yours,
Corp. Kelley, Clerk.

Complete Study at Chautauqua School

Thomas Conrad, member of the Russell school faculty, and Byron Swanson, who transfers this fall from Russell to Youngsville High School, are returning this weekend from Chautauqua Institution, where they have completed summer extension courses of graduate work from New York University.

Mr. Swanson, in addition to his university work, studied voice with Evan Evans, well known concert singer and teacher of voice in the Juilliard School of Music in New York City.

Both young men were again chosen as members of this summer's Chautauqua Motet Choir, a group of sixteen, which sang daily from the amphitheatre stage under the direction of George William Volke.

"QUEEN OF THE MOB" AT THE COLUMBIA TODAY AND SUNDAY

Prominent in a featured role in the cast of Paramount's "Queen of the Mob," based on J. Edgar Hoover's widely-read book, "Persons in Hiding," which opens today at the Columbia Theatre, is Ralph Bellamy, who is cast in the role of an FBI man. In this picture he returns to the detective type of part in which he registered effectively in "Trade Winds". One of the many outstanding characterizations given recently by Bellamy was in Columbia's "His Girl Friday".

In "Queen of the Mob," with Bellamy, are featured Blanche Yurka, J. Carrol Naish, Jean Cagney, William Henry, Richard Denning, Paul Kelly and James Seay. The screenplay was written by Horace McCay and William R. Lipman, and was directed by James Hogan.

Complete Study at Chautauqua School

Thomas Conrad, member of the Russell school faculty, and Byron Swanson, who transfers this fall from Russell to Youngsville High School, are returning this weekend from Chautauqua Institution, where they have completed summer extension courses of graduate work from New York University.

Mr. Swanson, in addition to his university work, studied voice with Evan Evans, well known concert singer and teacher of voice in the Juilliard School of Music in New York City.

Both young men were again chosen as members of this summer's Chautauqua Motet Choir, a group of sixteen, which sang daily from the amphitheatre stage under the direction of George William Volkel.

COLONEL'S LADY IS WHIZ AT BRIDGE; MAKES SLAM EASILY

This is the fifth of a series of six articles presenting hands played by some of Canada's outstanding stars.

BY WM. E. MCKENNEY America's Card Authority

If you should play bridge in a Canadian tournament, don't allow Mrs. S. W. Band's sweet personality to deceive you into failing to realize that she is one of the best card players in Canada. Her magnetic husband, a retired colonel of the Canadian army, has taught her to fear no one. Mrs. Band's favorite partner is John W. Jacobson of Toronto, and they arrived at a contract of seven clubs on today's hand.

They use the official system of bidding and I do not recall exactly how the bidding went at their table. The bidding shown was at our table, where our opponents also arrived at the optimum contract of seven clubs, but in the play of the hand, West made the mistake of trying to ruff the diamonds out and found too late that he did not have sufficient entries.

Here is the way Mrs. Band played the hand. She won the opening lead with the ace of diamonds and ruffed a small heart. Now, she finessed the ten of spades and ruffed the third heart with the ace of clubs. A small club was won in dummy with the jack and the last heart trumped. Mrs. Band then picked up the trump and the dummy was sold thus giving her the contract of seven-odd.

Sugar Grove

Sugar Grove, Aug. 13 The closing meeting of the Methodist Ladies' Aid Society, before joining the new union of women's societies of the church was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. D. Batlow. Eleven members and one guest were present. Mrs. Cora Broughton had charge of the following program: Group singing with devotion led by Mrs. Binsley, who read scripture, followed by a reading and prayer. Mrs. Arthur Stauffer gave reading "The Word of the Lord," and Miss Flossie Broughton read "Some Had Prayed."

Mrs. Binsley presided at the business meeting. The society voted to use the remaining money in the treasury to purchase some plates for the church as a memorial of the last meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society. A picnic lunch was served on the lawn.

Mrs. W. C. Stuart, Warren, Mrs. John Stuart and Mrs. Fulton McKay, gave a luncheon and shower at the latter's home Saturday, in honor of Miss Elsie Eldahl, who will become the bride of their brother, Scott C. Stuart, Jr., August 24. Luncheon was served at small tables centered with roses, with small nosegays for favors. The gifts were presented in a clever manner from a stone well, with moss covered stones and ferns around it and roses growing over the top. The guest of honor received many lovely gifts. Out of town guests were Mrs. R. M. Stuart, and Miss Marion Frank, Jamestown, and Mrs. George Wholeben, Warren.

Mrs. J. A. McIntosh entertained the Bridge Club and several guests at four tables of bridge Monday evening. Mrs. S. K. Fitch received high score. MEMORY OF THE moon

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY: Lovely Constance Cabrillo is the hardworking "throughback" in a family of spendthrifts. One evening she overhears her mother, brother and sister discussing the probable sale of the Cabrillo ranch with Constance's aunt, wealthy John Raskthorne.

Chapter Two
The "Charge It" Cabrillos

"MAY I hear about it?" Constance inquired.
"Taylor wants to buy the ranch," began her sister, Donna.
"He's offering fifty thousand dollars," said Don, "and we're fools if we don't snap him up. We don't care if we lose a year after the taxes are paid."

Constance waited a moment before she spoke. Someone wanted to buy El Cabrillo Ranch. She had a hazy vision of the place, tawny hills dotted with trees like tufted pincushions, dull green hills with stands of star-pointing redwoods; a jagged coast line grotesque red rocks jutting out into a jade-blue ocean; a low rambling house in a cove of weeping willows; soft-eyed people who came out of white adobe huts to chat with her father in Spanish; houses as golden tan as the hills.

Constance had a hazy vision of her home; made hazy by time. Fourteen years had passed since she had been there, but memory of the place was like her memory of her father, something that clung to in an unstable solid; something rooted in time and there to endure.

Knowledge that the ranch was there for her to return to had made possible this roving life of the last of the Cabrillos.

"Taylor?" she asked.
"The ranch manager," explained Don in exasperation. "You know him didn't you? Gee whiz, he's been there since time began."

"I was eight when father died," Constance reminded him. "And we left immediately afterwards, but I do remember there was such a person."

"He moved in two years before Don passed," Mrs. Cabrillo chimed in. "Don, for some reason, had great confidence in him."

"Well, what do you say, Con?" urged Don.
"How can a ranch manager with a salary of less than ten thousand a year, offer fifty thousand for that ranch?" she asked.

"He's probably offering it for someone else," Raskthorne suggested.
"But grazing land in that isolated section wouldn't be worth that much, and other land is worth more," she argued.

"You can't gaze and out there by the power line," urged Don. "Gosh, Con, use your head. Here we are skipping along on less than five thousand a year, and you want to turn down a chance like this. Think what we could do with fifty thousand—"

"That," said Constance, "is exactly what I am thinking. Turn you loose with that money to your credit, and how long would it last? A year at the most. And then what? And without the ranch to back your further credit, how would you live? And what of your social position without a hacienda to brag about?"

Don jumped up, angrily. "You'd love to see your sister behind a ribbon counter and me with a pick in my hand, wouldn't you?"
"I'd have a lot more respect for you than I have right now; you, with your millionaire complex, buying cars you can't afford and expecting me to pay for them."

Don was suddenly subdued. "What did you do about it, Chita?"

"I told that salesman to take the car; I wouldn't have it as a gift, not that you'd give me a chance to drive it after I'd given up my business car to save it."

"Oh I'm sick of the way we're living," the charge it Cabrillos. She paused and saw that Raskthorne had left the room. She thanked him and hated him for his consideration, then turned her anger on the others.

"I'm Through!"

"WE SEEM to think tradesmen can pay their bills with the message of our dealing with them. They can't. We seem to think servants are satisfied with board and room and the pleasure of serving us."

"Well, I'm through. I'll pay the wages of the two father hired, and who've stuck with us in spite of us, but I'm not paying for any of the new ones. We don't need them."

"I told Greenlands today that I pay for necessities, but if they wanted to send you luxuries to put them on a separate account."

"And if just one more bill collector comes to my office, I'll run a legal notice in all newspapers that I will not be responsible for anyone's bills."

Mrs. Cabrillo shook her head in gentle distress. "Darling, don't feel that way. Mother is only trying to establish a background so her children can meet the proper people and make good marriages. You'd never have met John socially if I hadn't sacrificed my pride."

Constance yawned and turned away. "If John is as good as dead in me because of my background, he's certainly been disfigured this day."

"Connie," Donna called after her, "how about Taylor and his offer?"
The blood of Michael Cabrillo started in his great-granddaughter. Her face was flushed by the others, or they would have seen the quick narrowing of her eyes which confirmed their belief in her shrewdness.

"What is the rush?" she evaded. "Had I accepted the offer first, Mr. MacDonald made on a site, I wouldn't be carrying a three hundred dollar commission check in my pocket now. Don't let Taylor know how anxious you are to sell and he may raise the ante. That's only common sense."

"Goodbye," she added hurriedly. "I must go to the office. . . . Business—"

"Constance, there are some bills," murmured Mrs. Cabrillo wistfully.
"Hey, Con, listen," urged Don, "stating towards her."

"Oh, Chita, please—" pleaded Donna.

But Constance fled, sick with disillusionment. She shouldn't have mentioned the check. They condemned her for working, yet felt that they had a right to the money she earned.

She reached her room and locked the door behind her. John would be waiting downstairs. It seemed he was always waiting some place. She wondered why he didn't die of his role.

"He'll have to wait some more," she thought. "I'm not fit company for anyone. Poor John."

For a moment she stood looking at her room. Spartan in its simplicity, and though she didn't recognize it, a symbol of defiance thrown at her extravagant family, just as her clothes were defiantly simple and few. Not that she didn't love soft velvets, smooth satins, brilliant and delicate colors, but that she loved freedom from debt more.

Restlessly she sought the studio couch in the window embrasure and sat chin in hand, staring out at the ragged leaves of the oak trees across the avenue.

She must think of many things, how to spread this commission check, so that tradesmen could have some of the money due to them, what she really should be about. The ranch, why her father had left the final decision to her, and why Donna had called her a throwback.

"I wonder why I am so different from them," she mused instead.

Symbol Of Security

AMSON might have told her one reason. Don Lamson was downstairs pacifying John Raskthorne with Scotch and soda. He would have pointed back to the day Constance became aware of herself as an individual, and not part of a family.

Lamson had taken her to one of the numerous parks the successive Cabrillo houses faced. He'd fastened her skates on, saw her dart away with her friends, and he'd retreated behind a newspaper. And then he'd read her call "Come on, kids. Mr. Raskthorne had looked up to find a crowd following her to the park commission. Her eyes confirmed their belief in her shrewdness.

He had hurried after them, just in time to hear Constance say, "Oh, charge it. I'm a Cabrillo."

"You sure are," the caretaker agreed. "A charge it Cabrillo. Only this time, kid, you pay. No money, no ice cream. No money? All right, then beat it, all of you."

Lamson would have remembered that he spent the dinner money (he not having been paid and Cabrillo credit elsewhere stopped) to save Constance further shame. But there was nothing he could do to save his favorite the humiliation of being nicknamed "Charge-it Cabrillo," until she refused to play with anyone while they remained in that city.

Constance would have remembered this only vaguely. It was the first of a succession of humiliations. She didn't think of them now, she thought only of the place which had made it possible for her to endure these insults. She had always been able to think: "I have the rancho . . . it's real, and all paid for."

COLONEL'S LADY IS WHIZ AT BRIDGE; MAKES SLAM EASILY

This is the fifth of a series of six articles presenting hands played by some of Canada's outstanding stars.

BY WM. E. MCKENNEY, America's Card Authority

If you should play bridge in a Canadian tournament, don't allow Mrs. S. W. Band's sweet personality to deceive you into falling to realize that she is one of the best card players in Canada. Her magnetic husband, a retired colonel of the Canadian army, has taught her to fear no one. Mrs. Band's favorite partner is John W. Jacobson of Toronto, and they arrived at a contract of seven clubs on today's hand.

They use the official system of bidding and I do not recall exactly how the bidding went at their table. The bidding shown was at our table, where our opponents also arrived at the optimistic contract of seven clubs; but in the play of the hand, West made the mistake of trying to ruff the diamonds out and found too late that he did not have sufficient entries.

Here is the way Mrs. Band played the hand. She won the opening lead with the ace of diamonds and ruffed a small heart.

Now, she finessed the ten of spades and ruffed the third heart with the ace of clubs. A small club was won in dummy with the jack and the last heart trumped.

Mrs. Band then picked up the trump and the dummy was solid, thus giving her the contract of seven-odd.

Sugar Grove

Sugar Grove, Aug. 13.—The closing meeting of the Methodist Ladies' Aid Society, before joining the new union of women's societies of the church was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. D. Barlow. Eleven members and one guest were present. Mrs. Cora Broughton had charge of the following program: Group singing, with devotions led by Mrs. Bindley, who read scripture, followed by a reading and prayer. Mrs. Arthur Stauffer gave a reading, "The Word of the Lord," and Miss Flossie Broughton read "Some Had Prayed."

Mrs. Bindley presided at the business meeting. The society voted to use the remaining money in the treasury to purchase some plates for the last meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society. A picnic lunch was served on the lawn.

Mrs. W. C. Stuart, Warren, Mrs. John Stuart and Mrs. Fulton McKay, gave a luncheon and shower at the latter's home Saturday, in honor of Miss Elsie Ekdahl, who will become the bride of their brother, Scott C. Stuart, Jr., August 24. Luncheon was served at small tables centered with roses, with small nosegays for favors.

The gifts were presented in a clever manner from a stone well, with moss covered stones and ferns around it and roses growing over the top. The guest of honor received many lovely gifts. Out of town guests were Mrs. R. M. Stuart and Miss Marion Frank, Jamestown, and Mrs. George Wholehen, Warren.

Mrs. J. A. McIntosh entertained the Bridge Club and several guests at four tables of bridge Monday evening. Mrs. S. K. Fitch received high score. The hostess was assisted in serving her guests by Mrs. R. E. Seamans, Greensburg, and Mrs. James Martin, Niagara Falls, N. Y. Other out of town guests were Mrs. Fitch, St. Paul, Minn., Miss Flossie Broughton and Miss Margaret Smith, Lakewood, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Youngberg entertained at a dinner party Saturday evening. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Martinson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Youngberg, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nelson, Carl Youngberg and daughter Betty, Jamestown, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Abbott and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Youngberg, Sugar Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Traverse Stohlberg spent the past week at Chautauque. Their young daughter, Marguerite, spent the week with her grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Laycock, at Jamestown.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Abbott Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Markam, and sons Laverne and Everett, and Miss Blanche Kelly, Stockton, N. Y. Mrs. Markam is a sister of Mrs. Abbott.

Mrs. M. L. Johnson spent the weekend at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Stuart on Lake Chautauque.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McIntosh and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Seamans and family, drove to Wellsville, N. Y., Sunday where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. James Martin and children, Niagara Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Landolf and family, Beaver Dam, Pa., and had a family picnic.

The Martin family returned to Sugar Grove and are guests at the McIntosh home.

Mrs. H. H. Dewey and Mrs. W. S. Perkins, Schenectady, N. Y., and Mrs. M. J. Broecker, New York, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Pelton from Friday until Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Feltz, Brookville, Pa., were guests at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. T. R. Sponsler and family last week.

Fulton McKay is spending a few days with relatives at Espeyville, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conklin and son Robert, and Mr. and Mrs. Neil Scott and daughter Ruth Ann were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Sexton at Stowe.

Rev. and Mrs. M. W. Castor, and family, Edinboro, were Monday guests of Rev. and Mrs. Carl Perrin.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Cumming, Greenfield, Mass., arrived Saturday evening to spend a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Cumming.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart attended the Lindstrom reunion at Corry Sunday. They were accompanied home by Sanford West, who will spend a few days as their guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pierson, Ashville, and Mrs. Idabel Bleakley, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Warner and two sons, Robert and Wendell, left early Tuesday morning for Sharpsville.

The Sugar Grove fire company and several others attended the Bisti picnic Saturday.

Boy Scout troop 17, with Stuart Perrin as leader, had an overnight hike and camp Monday night spending the night in Stauffer's woods.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Haggerty and son Donald have returned from a trip through the New England states.

The various committees for the Sugar Grove Community Fair are working on the plans.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Foltz, DuBois, were weekend guests of their daughter, Mrs. T. R. Sponsler and family. Miss Margaret Foltz, who has been the guest of her sister, accompanied them home.

Plans are being worked out by the committees for the Sugar Grove Community Fair which will be held September 12, 13 and 14.

Chandlers Valley

Chandlers Valley, Aug. 13.—Martha Dorcas will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Larson Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. J. Leon Maneval was pleasantly surprised Tuesday evening when 40 friends gathered at her home to celebrate her birthday. At a late hour, luncheon was served after which the honor guest was presented a purse of money.

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Eckberg and family of Dayton, Iowa spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Engstrom and family. Rev. Eckberg delivered the sermon at the Lutheran church Sunday evening and Miss Gladys Eckberg gave a vocal selection.

Mr. and Mrs. Hay Jarvis and family of Weston, W. Va., spent the past week with the latter's brother Frank Crowl and family.

Mrs. Burdette Hildum, son, Jackie, and daughter, Fae Wrae, of Philadelphia are spending some time with her father Bert Hinsdale.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark were Oge Dudley and Miss Harriet Tillotson of Ash-tabula, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ramburg and family of Hancock, N. Y., spent the weekend with the former's mother, Mrs. Anna Ramburg.

Harold Carlson is spending the week at Colgate, as a delegate to the New York Conference Luther League convention.

The Otterbein Guild girls spent Sunday at Findlay Lake.

Rev. and Mrs. E. O. Eakin and son Harold of Findlay, Ohio spent the past week with the latter's sister, Mrs. C. L. Ekdahl.

Miss Audrey Carlson is spending a few days at Washington, D. C. and the World's Fair.

Miss Shirley Heckle of Stanford, Conn., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lawson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Theron Johnson and daughter of Honesdale are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Johnson.

Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Kelly, Mrs. Clara Wilson and daughter Harriett and Mrs. Olinier Swanson spent Wednesday with Rev. and Mrs. John Carlson at Great Valley, N. Y.

Mrs. Amelia Patchen spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Patchen at Salamanca.

Sunday guests of Mrs. Minnie Johnson were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown and Miss Esther Brown of Port Alleghey.

"He moved in two years before Don passed," Mrs. Cabrillos elucidated. "Don, for some reason, had great confidence in him."

"Well, what do you say, Con," urged Don.

MEMORY OF THE MOON

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY: Lovely Constance Cabrillos is the hardworking "housewife" in a family of spendthrifts. One evening she overhears her mother, brother and sister discussing the possible sale of the Cabrillos ranch with Constance's suitor, wealthy John Raskthorne.

Chapter Two
"Charge It" Cabrillos

"MAY I hear about it?" Constance inquired.

"Taylor wants to buy the ranch," began her sister, Donna. "He's offering fifty thousand dollars," said Don, "and we're fools if we don't snap him up. We don't clear five thousand a year after the taxes are paid."

Constance waited a moment before she spoke. Someone wanted to buy El Cabrillos Rancho. She had a hazy vision of the place, tawny hills dotted with trees like tufted pincushions, dull green hills with stands of star-pointing redwoods; a jagged coast line, grotesque red rocks jutting out into a jade-blue ocean; a low rambling house in a cavern of weeping willows, soft-eyed people who came out of white adobe huts to chat with her father in Spanish; horses as golden tan as the hills.

Constance had a hazy vision of her home; made hazy by time. Fourteen years had passed since she had been there, but memory of the rancho was like her memory of her father, something stable to cling to in an unstable world; something rooted in time and there to endure.

Knowledge that the ranch was there for her to return to, had made possible this roving life of the last of the Cabrillos.

"Taylor?" she asked.

"The ranch manager," explained Don in exasperation. "You knew him, didn't you? Gee whiz, Con, he's been there since time began."

"I was eight when father died," Constance reminded him. "and we left immediately afterwards, but I do remember there was such a person."

"He moved in two years before Don passed," Mrs. Cabrillos elucidated. "Don, for some reason, had great confidence in him."

"Well, what do you say, Con," urged Don.

"How can a ranch manager with a salary of less than two thousand a year, offer fifty thousand for that ranch?" she queried.

"He's probably offering it for someone else," Raskthorne suggested.

"But grazing land in that isolated section wouldn't be worth that much, and other land is worth more," she argued.

"You can't gauge land out there by the prices here," disparaged Don. "Gosh, Con, use your head. Here we are skimming along on less than five thousand a year, and you want to turn down a chance like this. Think what we could do with fifty thousand—"

"That," said Constance, "is exactly what I am thinking. Turn you loose with that money to your credit, and how long would it last? A year at the most. And then what? And without the ranch to back your further credit, how would you live? And what of your social position without a hacienda to brag about?"

"I have a lot more respect for you than I have right now; you, with your millionaire complex, buying cars you can't afford and expecting me to pay for them."

Don was suddenly subdued. "What did you do about it, Chita?"

"I told that salesman to take the car; I wouldn't give it as a gift. . . not that you'd give me a chance to drive it after I'd given up my business car to save it."

"Oh I'm sick of the way we're living. . . the charge it Cabrillos!" She paused and saw that Raskthorne had left the room. She thanked him and hated him for his consideration, then turned her anger on the others.

"I'm Through"

"WE SEEM to think tradesmen can pay their bills with the prestige of our dealing with them. They can't. We seem to think servants are satisfied with board and room and the pleasure of serving us."

"Well, I'm through. I'll pay the wages of the two father hired, and who've stuck with us in spite of us, but I'm not paying for any of the new ones. We don't need them."

"I told Greenlands today that I pay for necessities, but if they wanted to send you luxuries to put them on a separate account."

"And if just one more bill collector comes to my office, I'll run a legal notice in all newspapers that I will not be responsible for anyone's bills

THAT INSIDIOUS YELLOW POLLEN

That police department warning issued Wednesday to the effect that if weeds on vacant lots in the borough are not cut at once, work will be done by the borough and lot owners billed for the costs reminds that this is the time of the year when 132,000,000-000,000,000 grains of ragweed pollen start out looking for trouble.

Of course, there may be a billion more or less this year, but 132,000,000,000,000,000 is close enough.

(Incidentally, in case you're stumped by that row of zeros, the figure is merely 132 quintillions. A quintillion—or one billion billions—is the number denoted by a unit with 18 zeros annexed.)

The figure was computed from information furnished by O. C. Durham, chief botanist for Abbott Laboratories in Chicago, who has spent years studying what it is that makes hay fever sufferers that way.
From observations made in about 100 American cities, Durham has estimated that 1,000,000 tons of the insidious, yellow pollen is produced each year.
But only about 275,000 tons of this sneeze crop is blown into the air, and it was on this basis that the computation was made.

There are, roughly, 500,000,000 grains of pollen in a gram, Durham said. About 30 grams make an ounce, 16 ounces a pound, and 2,000 pounds make a ton. Multiply them all and what do you get? An all-American running nose!

Experiments have shown that the active irritating principle of the pollen remains potent for twenty years, but Durham says hay fever victims should not worry about that.

Clouds of pollen that are lifted into the air usually fall to the ground within 48 hours. Rain washes them into the earth, they mix with the soil and leave the job of making people uncomfortable to the tril-lions of their younger relatives.

So you can observe, the borough officials have a few billion reasons for insisting that weeds on vacant lots in town be harvested at once!

Elwood, Ind., certainly "put on the dog" today to receive the home town boy who more than made good.

Lot of folks find consolation in the fact that the community fair season is almost at hand.

Begins to look as if the European war is going to run into the World Series again!

WEEKLY SERMONETTE

"PUTTING FIRST THINGS FIRST"

ERNEST A. KAEBNICK,
General Missionary American Sunday School Union

Text: St. Matthew 6:33 "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness."

The account in 2 Chronicles 27 of King Jotham, who became a king at twenty-five years of age and reigned for sixteen years, is very brief. He succeeded his father, King Uzziah, who had reigned fifty-two years in Jerusalem and died as a victim of leprosy. The record tells us that the son "did that which was right in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father Uzziah did." He had, however, one serious fault. "He entered not into the temple of the Lord." In other words, he did not go to church. His failure to faithfully continue to attend the place of worship resulted in serious consequences, not so much at once to him as to others. For we read, "The people did not yet corruptly," and this was the direct result of his indifference and neglect of public devotion. The people seeing that their king did not go to the temple, did the same, and the result was that they lapsed into paganism.

Moreover, the king's own children, seeing that their father did not go to church, stayed away also. Quietly and naturally, they grew up without God, and when King Jotham died and his son Ahaz succeeded him, it is not at all surprising that he became one of the worst of all kings.

This account of what happened many years ago surely has a present day application and might be told of many families today.
Too many parents, because of indifference, of self-righteousness, of an attitude that they are as good as the church member, are neglecting the Church. The direct result upon them may not have an immediate effect, but upon their children, and all who are influenced by them, it is disastrous. We cannot escape the effect, for good or evil, of our example and influence upon others.

We should support and identify ourselves actively with the church because of its history, because of what it has meant to generations past. Past generations needed the church, we need it even more today. Every movement resulting in the regeneration of society, in the moral and spiritual uplift of humanity, the relief of distress and suffering, has started from the Christian Church.

Christ established the Church. The Church is a place of worship, a place where we seek and find God. Christ not only established the Church but attended it regularly. Are we following His example or that of King Jotham? We cannot neglect it without serious loss and final disappointment.

T-H-O-U-G-H-T-S

But I say unto which hear, Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you.—Luke 6:27.

It is the very essence of love, of nobility, of greatness, to be willing to suffer for the good of others.—Spence.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Occasionally, a word dropped here has strange repercussions. Because a Texas reader had more than passing interest in one of these columns, there is a new way of doing things in the office of Herbert E. Gaston, assistant secretary of the treasury.

It happened this way: In those days when the Nazis were bilzkrieging France and the Red Cross was denouncing the fact that money from its current campaign was not readily available, the Texan wrote the treasury department with a plan for financing immediate Red Cross aid.

The letter went into Gaston's office, where thousands of letters are received daily.

One of Gaston's assistants read it and answered with one of those form letters—you know, 202A—something to the effect that "Your suggestion has been received and filed for consideration by the proper authority."

Learned Of Grady

THE Texan was a bit miffed but did nothing about it until he ran across one of these columns, in which the story of James F. Grady was told—the man who is slowly revolutionizing contact of government departments with the public by teaching thousands of clerks and assistants how to write courteous and intelligent letters.

The Texan wrote Grady, stating his case and saying that here seemed to be a splendid example of how not to answer a courteous suggestion.

Grady, knowing Gaston personally, telephoned him with the idea of ribbing him, but Gaston refused to rib. He insisted that Grady have a talk with him.

The talk lasted a couple of hours and as a result there's a new set-up in Gaston's office.

Things aren't done there any more as they used to be done and the gentleman in Texas will be happy to know that nobody else will catch form 202A if he writes in with a good suggestion.

Jacob Offerle, of the South Side, is undoubtedly the oldest active resident of Warren being in his 80th a century ago on a site on the river front adjoining the present location of the Revere House.

New potatoes were offered on

Not much politics are heard in Warren at the present time. Old timers at the game declare that it is impossible to keep a political enthusiasm until after the election.

What Do You Know About POLITICS?

1. Sure, you know who he is, but do you know whether he resigned as New York State Democratic Committee Chairman when he resigned as National Democratic Chairman and as Postmaster General?
2. What method of determining whether compulsory military service should be adopted was proposed by Senator Wheeler of Montana?
3. What two states possibly may determine the issue in this fall's presidential election?
4. How many electoral votes are necessary to elect a president?
5. What is a "lame duck" senator?

Each full question counts 20. A score of 80 is good.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Sergio Orta, who looks like a Cuban edition of Victor Moore, sank into a chair at the Havana-Madrid and gave himself up to the moody contemplation of another three-hour wait before he would be on the floor again.

"I am sad," he explained. "Always I am sad when I am not dancing. When I announce the show I am unhappy. When the people cheer, I am unhappy too.
It makes no difference whether they cheer or forget to cheer, unless I am dancing. Only when I am doing the dance is Orta happy."

Orta is a fat-jowled comedian who is shaped something like a reasonably hard-boiled egg. He sort of quivers when he walks.
Through great horn-rim glasses he peers out at a world that is translated only into two mediums —good and bad. It is good only when the rumba is rumbling and the conga is coiling like a great hip-switching tropical reptile. All else is bad.

"I GO home in two weeks," he announced suddenly. "I go home to Havana to sell my house and get my inheritance. Then I come back and get my citizenship paper. I put on a big Latin-American musical comedy called "Tropicana." I introduce the new dance New York has never before seen—the Naniga. It is a dance that the authorities prohibit in Cuba. But you will see it in New York. I do it. I design the costumes. I bring back the music and the primitive African drums.
There is nothing like it. When I do this, I will be happy."

Senor Orta arrived at his sta-

THAT INSIDIOUS YELLOW POLLEN

That police department warning issued Wednesday to the effect that if weeds on vacant lots in the borough are not cut at once, work will be done by the borough and lot owners billed for the costs reminds that this is the time of the year when 132,000,000,000,000,000 grains of ragweed pollen start out looking for trouble.

Of course, there may be a billion more or less this year, but 132,000,000,000,000,000 is close enough.

(Incidentally, in case you're stumped by that row of zeros, the figure is merely 132 quintillions. A quintillion—or one billion billions—is the number denoted by a unit with 18 zeros annexed.)

The figure was computed from information furnished by O. C. Durham, chief botanist for Abbott Laboratories in Chicago, who has spent years studying what it is that makes hay fever sufferers that way.

From observations made in about 100 American cities, Durham has estimated that 1,000,000 tons of the insidious, yellow pollen is produced each year. But only about 275,000 tons of this sneeze crop is blown into the air, and it was on this basis that the computation was made.

There are, roughly, 500,000,000 grains of pollen in a gram, Durham said. About 30 grams make an ounce, 16 ounces a pound, and 2,000 pounds make a ton. Multiply them all and what do you get? An all-American running nose!

Experiments have shown that the active irritating principle of the pollen remains potent for twenty years, but Durham says hay fever victims should not worry about that.

Clouds of pollen that are lifted into the air usually fall to the ground within 48 hours. Rain washes them into the earth, they mix with the soil and leave the job of making people uncomfortable to the trillions of their younger relatives.

So you can observe, the borough officials have a few billion reasons for insisting that weeds on vacant lots in town be harvested at once!

Elwood, Ind., certainly "put on the dog" today to receive the home town boy who more than made good.

Lot of folks find consolation in the fact that the community fair season is almost at hand.

Begins to look as if the European war is going to run into the World Series again!

WEEKLY SERMONETTE
"PUTTING FIRST THINGS FIRST"

ERNEST A. KAEBNICK,
General Missionary American Sunday School Union

Text: St. Matthew 6:33 "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness."

The account in 2 Chronicles 27 of King Jotham, who became a king at twenty-five years of age and reigned for sixteen years, is very brief. He succeeded his father, King Uzziah, who had reigned fifty-two years in Jerusalem and died as a victim of leprosy. The record tells us that the son "did that which was right in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father Uzziah did." He had, however, one serious fault. "He entered not into the temple of the Lord." In other words, he did not go to church. His failure to faithfully continue to attend the place of worship resulted in serious consequences, not so much at once to him as to others. For we read, "the people did yet corruptly," and this was the direct result of his indifference and neglect of public devotion. The people seeing that their king did not go to the temple, did the same, and the result was that they lapsed into paganism.

Moreover, the king's own children, seeing that their father did not go to church, stayed away also. Quite naturally, they grew up without God, and when King Jotham died and his son Ahaz succeeded him, it is not at all surprising that he became one of the worst of all kings.

This account of what happened many years ago surely has a present day application and might be told of many families today. Too many parents, because of indifference, of self-righteousness, of an attitude that they are as good as the church member, are neglecting the Church. The direct result upon them may not have an immediate effect, but upon their children, and all who are influenced by them, it is disastrous. We cannot escape the effect, for good or evil, of our example and influence upon others.

We should support and identify ourselves actively with the church because of its history, because of what it has meant to generations past. Past generations needed the church, we need it even more today. Every movement resulting in the regeneration of society, in the moral and spiritual uplift of humanity, the relief of distress and suffering, has started from the Christian Church.

Christ established the Church. The Church is a place of worship, a place where we seek and find God. Christ not only established the Church but attended it regularly. Are we following His example or that of King Jotham? We cannot neglect it without serious loss and final disappointment.

T-H-O-U-G-H-T-S

But I say unto which hear, Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you.—Luke 6:27.

It is the very essence of love, of nobleness, of greatness, to be willing to suffer for the good of others.—Spence.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Occasionally, a word dropped here has strange repercussions. Because a Texas reader had more than passing interest in one of these columns, there is a new way of doing things in the office of Herbert E. Gaston, assistant secretary of the treasury.

It happened this way: In those days when the Nazis were blitzkrieging France and the Red Cross was bemoaning the fact that money from its current campaign was not readily available, the Texas wrote the treasury department with a plan for financing immediate Red Cross aid.

The letter went into Gaston's office, where thousands of letters are received daily. One of Gaston's assistants read it and answered with one of those form letters—you know, 202A—something to the effect that "Your suggestion has been received and filed for consideration by the proper authority."

Learned Of Grady

THE Texas was a bit miffed but did nothing about it until he ran across one of these columns, in which the story of James F. Grady was told—the man who is slowly revolutionizing contact of government departments with the public by teaching thousands of clerks and assistants how to write courteous and intelligent letters.

The Texas wrote Grady, stating his case and saying that here seemed to be a splendid example of how not to answer a courteous suggestion.

Grady, knowing Gaston personally, telephoned him with the idea of ribbing him, but Gaston refused to rib. He insisted that Grady have a talk with him.

The talk lasted a couple of hours and as a result there's a new set-up in Gaston's office. Things aren't done there any more as they used to be done and the gentleman in Texas will be happy to know that nobody else will catch form 202A if he writes in with a good suggestion.

Where's The Cup?

HERE'S one the newboys overlooked: Major Paul McGahan is an earnest and devoted American Legionnaire.

Some years ago he donated to the District of Columbia Legion a beautiful cup ("Why, it cost me 80 bucks," he says, "and that was wholesale") to be given each year to the post gaining the most members.

This year the cup was won by the Police post and Major McGahan was asked to present it.

After properly lauding the post for its fine work, McGahan merely handed the Police post commander a sheet of paper and concluded:

"I can't tell you how happy I am that you have won this honor, but if you want the cup you'll have to go out and find it. It was stolen last night."

For Carrying Subs

Add to the war inventions now pouring forth upon the army and navy from the fertile brains of inventors: A submarine carrier! As I get it, the mother boat would have a lot of funnels running through her hull at water-line.

In these, tiny submarines would be berthed while the big ship scoured the seas.

When the enemy was sighted, the little submarines would run out and descend on the enemy like a school of death-dealing guppies... get the job done... and come home to rest in the hull of the mother ship.

YEARS AGO IN WARREN

Interesting Items Taken From the Warren Evening Times

In 1920

Jacob Offerlee, of the South Side, is undoubtedly the oldest active resident of Warren being in his 80th year. He is the son of George Offerlee, one of the pioneer residents of Warren who built a home almost a century ago on a site on the river front adjoining the present location of the Revere House.

New potatoes were offered on the street market this forenoon for 70 cents the bushel and home grown corn at 35 cents the dozen. Cabbage seems to be a drug on the market and is selling at 3 cents the pound.

Not much politics are heard in Warren at the present time. Old timers at the game declare that it is impossible to work up any enthusiasm until after "dog days."

Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters from all over this section will gather at the Outing Club tomorrow for the annual outing of the order.

All the bad spots in the streets are gradually being fixed up so that Old Home Week visitors will find things "running smoothly" when they arrive.

In 1930

One of the most destructive fires of the summer season has been burning since Monday afternoon near Henry's Mills. The blaze has destroyed several hundred cords of paper wood, several thousand feet of logs, a large quantity of chemical wood, three oil tanks, a railroad tank car and car loaded with wood for shipment. Smoke has been visible for miles.

Farmers residing in the vicinity of Grundeville, in Pleasant township, are forcing the river near the Greenlund farm. This is the first summer in many years when such a drive has been possible.

Mrs. Harry Bell, president of the American Legion Auxiliary and Mrs. H. M. Putnam, both delegates from the local organization, will leave tomorrow for Harrisburg, where they will attend the state convention of Auxiliaries.

To date the Juliano team is leading in the "Little World Series" for the championship of the several mushball leagues of the city. They have won three and lost none. The Conway barbers are in second place and the Reifers third.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Sergio Orta, who looks like a Cuban edition of Victor Moore, sank into a chair at the Havana-Madrid and gave himself up to the moody contemplation of another three-hour wait before he would be on the floor again.

"I am sad," he explained. "Always I am sad when I am not dancing. When I announce the show I am unhappy. When the people cheer, I am unhappy too. It makes no difference whether they cheer or forget to cheer, unless I am dancing. Only when I am doing the dance is Orta happy."

Orta is a fat-jowled comedian who is shaped something like a reasonably hard-boiled egg. He sort of quivers when he walks. Through great horn-rimmed glasses he peers out at a world that is translated only into two mediums—good and bad. It is good only when the rumba is rumbling and the conga is coiling like a great hip-switching tropical reptile. All else is bad.

"I GO home in two weeks," he announced suddenly. "I go home to Havana to sell my house and get my inheritance. Then I come back and get my citizenship paper. I put on a big Latin-American musical comedy called 'Tropicana.' I introduce the new dance New York has never before seen—the Naniga. It is a dance that the authorities prohibit in Cuba. But you will see it in New York. I do it. I design the costumes. I bring back the music and the primitive African drums. There is nothing like it. When I do this, I will be happy."

Senor Orta arrived at his station of master of ceremonies and general clown at the Havana-Madrid, a Broadway Latin-American night club, by devious ways. He came only to visit the World's Fair. Being Cuban, he waited until nightfall and then naturally gravitated toward the distant thumping of the rumba drums. He launched his round, rotunda-like frame out onto the floor, and began to dance. The dancers began to form a circle around him. Next night he came back and monopolized the crowd's attention again. They began to forget about the show. Orta made them cheer.

AT THIS point the owners of the club persuaded Senor Orta to lend his talents and his flaming red-and-yellow blazers to the Havana-Madrid floor show. Since that time he has designed its costumes, organized its routines, introduced its stars with glib Cuban yelps, and, at each finale, hurled himself onto the floor to dance through the final round-up.

It is then, when he is heaving his jolly frame through the fast contortions of an over-fed quiverbug, that life comes into his eyes and the world (to him) is fair and good to look upon. Nothing else matters—not even the horse at Rockingham that yesterday paid him 17 for two.

"You see," explained Orta, "always I am sad unless I dance. The horses, the fair—they mean nothing. One must live, one must love, one must dance—that is life."

"You said it there, brother," I said, reaching for my hat and bowing myself out. Senor Orta's melancholia was becoming infectious. It made you sad to see him so sad. As the next show was two hours away, I couldn't wait.

Family Reunions

NOBLIT-MALIN FAMILY GATHERING
The 18th annual reunion of the Noblit-Malin families was held Saturday, August 10, at Parker's Dam, with 62 members in attendance. At 1:30 o'clock a bountiful dinner was served. Mrs. Chandler led the devotions and all joined in reciting the Lord's Prayer.
A business meeting was conducted by the president, James Noblit, of Williamsport, and all officers were re-elected for the coming year. Mrs. Chandler, historian, reported two births for the year.
Boating, bathing, baseball, bicycle riding and visiting occupied the remainder of the afternoon, until ice cream and cake were served at five o'clock.
The next reunion will be held the second Sunday in August at a place to be announced later.

Grace Moore Concert Will Conclude Music Offerings at Chautauqua; Other Features

Grace Moore, soprano of opera, radio and movie fame, will head the final week of activities at Chautauqua Institution, giving the closing concert of the 67th season on Saturday evening.
Another outstanding feature of the week will be the annual institute of world missions, assembly of American religious workers, to be held throughout the week.
The interdenominational sermon on Sunday will be given by Dr. Oscar F. Blackweider, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, Washington, D. C., speaking at 10:30.
Among mission speakers for the week's schedule are Dr. H. F. Hivale, of Wilson College, Bombay, speaking on "Areas of Tension of the Modern World"; Dr. Hugh C. Stuntz, of Buenos Aires, continuing his series on "Pan-American Friendship"; Dr. Robert McClure, director of the Red Cross in western China, speaking on "China Under Tension"; Dr. Mark A. Dawber, executive secretary of the Home Missions Council, on "Shifting Populations."
Albert Stoessel will conduct the final broadcast concert of the year, to be relayed at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon by WEAF and associated stations. Georges Barrere, premier French flutist, will be the soloist. At eight in the evening, the Chautauqua Choir and soloists will present excerpts from Parker's "Hora Novissima."
The closing meeting of the Chautauqua Woman's Club for this season will be held at 3:15 Monday afternoon and at 4:30 the

Virginia Benson and George Morley Marry In Bethany Lutheran Church at Sheffield

A beautiful summer wedding took place in the Bethany Lutheran church at Sheffield Thursday afternoon, when, at three o'clock, Rev. Carl Lundgren united in marriage Miss Virginia B. Benson, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benson, of Brockport, and George P. Morley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Morley, of Sheffield.
The altar was banked with ferns and palms, with gladioli in the foreground. Wedding music was provided by Josephine Benson, of Sheffield, pianist, and Ernest Rossell, of New York City, vocalist. Their selections were "I Love You Truly," "O Promise Me" and "Through the Years."
The bride's lovely organdie dress was fashioned with sweetheart neckline and leg o' mutton sleeves. Her fingertip veil was held with a coronet of orange blossoms and her bouquet was of white gladioli, white sweet peas and baby's breath. Her grandfather gave her in marriage.
Gertrude Benson, of Sheffield, as maid of honor, wore sheer peach net and shoulder-length veil of matching net. Miss Janet Benson, of Grove City, the bridesmaid, was in blue sheer net and veil. Each carried a bouquet of asters and gladioli.
The bride's grandmother wore black with white accessories and Mrs. Morley wore teal blue with white accessories. Their corsages were of white, also.
Clyde Morley, of Sheffield, was his brother's best man and ushers were Fred Morley, of Sheffield, and Keith Benson, of Meadville, brothers of the bride and bridegroom. Sixty guests were invited to the reception in the church parlors, held at five o'clock. Decorations were carried out artistically with summer flowers and the bride's table had places for 15 about the three-tiered wedding cake. Streamers and candles were arranged attractively.
Guests included Winnifred Pearson, of East Orange, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Benson, of Grove City; Keith Benson, of Sheffield; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benson, of Brockport; Martha Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ohlson, Mrs. Harold Jackson and daughters, Warren; Mrs. Selma Johnson and Mrs. Alfred Steis, Ridgway.
Following a wedding trip in the east, Mr. and Mrs. Morley will reside in Sheffield, where the former has a responsible position with the Pennsylvania Bottle Company. For traveling, the bride chose a pretty crepe dress, redingote style, white accessories and a corsage of asters and sweet peas. A graduate of Brockport High School in the class of 1935, the bride has until recently had employment with the Warren Lamp Company here.

Grace Moore Concert Will Conclude Music Offerings at Chautauqua; Other Features

Grace Moore, soprano of opera, radio and movie fame, headlines the final week of activities at Chautauqua Institution, giving the closing concert of the 67th season on Saturday evening.

Another outstanding feature of the week will be the annual institute of world missions, assembly of American religious workers, to be held throughout the week.

The interdenominational sermon on Sunday will be given by Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, Washington, D. C., speaking at 10:30.

Among mission speakers for the week's schedule are Dr. H. P. Hivale, of Wilson College, Bombay, speaking on "Areas of Tension of the Modern World"; Dr. Hugh C. Stuntz, of Buenos Aires, continuing his series on "Pan-American Friendship"; Dr. Robert McClure, director of the Red Cross in western China, speaking on "China Under Tension"; Dr. Mark A. Dawber, executive secretary of the Home Missions Council, on "Shifting Populations."

Albert Stoessel will conduct the final broadcast concert of the year, to be relayed at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon by WEAF and associated stations. Georges Barrere, premier French flutist, will be the soloist. At eight in the evening, the Chautauqua Choir and soloists will present excerpts from Parker's "Hora Novissima."

The closing meeting of the Chautauqua Woman's Club for this season will be held at 3:15 Monday afternoon and at 4:30 the Mischakoff String Quartet will play under the auspices of the Chautauqua Chamber Music Society in Norton Memorial Hall. At 8:15, the opera company will present Bizet's "Carmen" at the same place, with Joan Peebles and Hardesty Johnson.

Tuesday afternoon at 3:15, the Chautauqua Bird and Tree Club will hold its annual meeting and at 8:15 the symphony will present an operatic program.

Wednesday afternoon at 4:30, George William Volk will give an organ recital, while at 8:15, the final concert of the season will be presented, the orchestra playing a program of compositions by Valdi, Tchaikowsky, Debussy and Bloch.

Dr. Robert Searle, general secretary of the Greater New York Federation of Churches, will lead a panel discussion on "Christian Democracy" for the amphitheatre program at 8:15 Thursday evening.

At the same hour on Friday night there will be an illustrated lecture, but its topic has not been announced.

Saturday is "Ervant Day" in honor of William Cullen Bryant. At 2:30 there will be an important address for which neither speaker nor topic has been announced. Miss Moore's recital at 8:15 will close the brilliant musical season.

Virginia Benson and George Morley Marry In Bethany Lutheran Church at Sheffield

A beautiful summer wedding took place in the Bethany Lutheran church at Sheffield Thursday afternoon, when, at three o'clock, Rev. Carl Lundgren united in marriage Miss Virginia B. Benson, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benson, of Brockport, and George P. Morley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Morley, of Sheffield.

The altar was banked with ferns and palms, with gladioli in the foreground. Wedding music was provided by Josephine Benson, of Sheffield, pianist, and Ernest Russell, of New York City, vocalist. Their selections were "I Love You Truly," "O Promise Me" and "Through the Years."

The bride's lovely organdie dress was fashioned with sweetheart neckline and leg of mutton sleeves. Her fingertip veil was held with a coronet of orange blossoms and her bouquet was of white gladioli, white sweet peas and baby's breath. Her grandfather gave her in marriage.

Gertrude Benson, of Sheffield, as maid of honor, wore sheer peach net and shoulder-length veil of matching net. Miss Janet Benson, of Grove City, the bridesmaid, was in blue sheer net and veil. Each carried a bouquet of asters and gladioli.

The bride's grandmother wore black with white accessories and Mrs. Morley wore teal blue with white accessories. Their corsages were of white, also.

Clyde Morley, of Sheffield, was his brother's best man and ushers were Fred Morley, of Sheffield, and Keith Benson, of Meadville, brothers of the bride and bridegroom. Sixty guests were invited to the reception in the church parlors, held at five o'clock. Decorations were carried out artistically with summer flowers and the bride's table had places for 15 about the three-tiered wedding cake. Streamers and candles were arranged attractively.

Guests included Winnifred Pearson, of East Orange, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Benson, Janet and John Benson, Grove City; Keith Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benson and family, Meadville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benson, Brockport; Martha Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ohlson, Mrs. Harold Jackson and daughters, Warren; Mrs. Selma Johnson and Mrs. Alfred Steig, Ridgebury.

Following a wedding trip in the east, Mr. and Mrs. Morley will reside in Sheffield, where the former has a responsible position with the Pennsylvania Bottle Company. For traveling, the bride chose a pretty crepe dress, redingote style, white accessories and a corsage of asters and sweet peas. A graduate of Brockport High School in the class of 1935, the bride has until recently been employed with the Warren Lamp Company here.

SLENDERIZING BOLERO ENSEMBLE
PATTERN 4442
BY ANNE ADAMS

There's a gracious "leading lady" look about this frock and bolero. Pattern 4442 by Anne Adams. You'll start off the fall season by wearing the ensemble, with the tailored, long-sleeved bolero, as a street outfit. Later, you'll wear the dress alone under your coat. Just see those well-balanced lines! The front skirt panel gives slim flattery. The simple bodice is shirred or gathered at the shoulders and darted above the waist to keep its easy fullness in place. A row of tiny buttons from the V-neck to the waist creates nice up-and-down lines. A gay idea is to contrast the rounded revers of the jacket to match the dress. Let the Sewing Instructor help you finish quickly.

Pattern 4442 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36, dress takes 3½ yards 39 inch fabric. Bolero, 1½ yards.
Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER. Be "best dressed woman in town" . . . on a budget plan . . . via the ANNE ADAMS BOOK OF PATTERNS. This wonderful magazine

Menus of the Day

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Here's a sour cream recipe that's tasty.

Delicious Sour Cream Recipe
Dinner Serving 3 or 4
Broiled Lamb Chops
Beets, Bay Shore Style
Bread, Plum Jam
Tossed Green Salad
Apricot Fruit Pie Coffee

Beets, Bay Shore Style
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon celery seed
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon granulated sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar
1½ cup water
1½ cup sour cream
2 cups cooked cubed or minced beets
1 teaspoon chopped parsley

Melt butter and add flour and seasonings. Pour in vinegar and water. Stir constantly and cook until creamy. Add other ingredients and simmer five minutes or until smoking hot.

Apricot Fruit Pie
½ cup granulated sugar
1 cup apricot juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1½ teaspoon salt
1½ cup water
1 cup cooked apricots
2 tablespoons butter
1½ teaspoon cinnamon
1½ teaspoon vanilla
1 unbaked pie crust

Blend sugar with flour. Add juices, rind, salt and water. Cook slowly and stir constantly until the mixture thickens. Pour into crust. Cover with apricots and spread them with butter, cinnamon and vanilla. Bake 15 minutes in a slow oven. Cool and serve plain or covered with whipped cream.

Whipped cream flavored with marshmallows whip or melted marshmallows makes a flavorful topper for baked, steamed, gelatin or fruit desserts. No sugar will be required to sweeten the cream.

His Highness Registers a Kick

The camera caught the Duke of Windsor in this informal pose, apparently kicking the "sea cramps" out of his legs after his ocean voyage from Lisbon to Hamilton, Bermuda. He and the Duchess are pictured relaxing in the gardens of Government House.

CAPITAL GOSSIP

WASHINGTON—The state department's question mark, William Christian Bullitt, may or may not be going back to his post as Ambassador to France. The feeling around the state department is that he won't. The feeling around the White House is that he may stick around as the President's personal advisor on foreign affairs.

For this, he is incomparably suited. Few would deny that tall, lithe, debonair Bill Bullitt knows more about Europe than any other living American.

If he is comparatively unknown on this side of the Atlantic, it is only because he has been so much away. For 25 years since he left Harvard law school, he has lived mostly abroad. Practically all of that time he has moved in the highest diplomatic circles.

Bomb Wasn't A Dud
PERSONALLY, he is disarming, candid. He is at home in any company. He hates sham and evasion. He can be enthusiastic or violently indignant. He entertains frequently and lavishly. It is reported that maintaining the Paris embassy during his four years there cost him $75,000 a year (salary $17,500).

He loves the culture centers of Europe, Vienna, Paris, Moscow . . . deplures that they have fallen under the heel of totalitarianism. He hates war and has dedicated his public career to its eradication, but he has for years been a strong advocate of our aiming for total defense.

He has been married twice and twice divorced. His first wife was the widow of John Reed, the American communist who is buried in the wall of the Kremlin. His private life, he devotes to his 16-year-old daughter, Anne, who is with him constantly when she is not in school.

Two years ago on a visit here, Bullitt explained to friends that he had no personal political ambitions, that when bombs started falling on Europe, they would find him at his post in Paris. They did. One fell through the ceiling of the room in which he was lunching with the minister of aviation. At first, it was reported to be a dud, but it wasn't. An hour later, its delayed action fuse went to work. It exploded, demolished the place.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—"The Great McGinty." Written and directed by Preston Sturges. Principals: Brian Donlevy, Muriel Louise, Akim Tamiroff, Allyn Joslyn, William Demarest, Louis Jean Heydt, Steffi Duna.

Fresh in treatment and timely in theme, "The Great McGinty" tells the story of a city bum who got in with a crooked political machine and rose, by logical if unconventional processes, to be governor of a state.

Dan McGinty (Donlevy) came from a breadline to earn a few bucks voting, at $2 per vote. He voted so industriously that the Boss (Tamiroff) saw a future for him. He was as tough as the Boss, and took no back talk.

Pretty soon Dan was a city slicker, and ripe for the mayoralty—on the reform ticket. To win women's votes, they figured, he had to have a wife, and there was a nice girl (Angelus) who didn't mind marrying him on a platonic basis. That was Dan's first mistake. He fell for the dame and vice versa, and then when he won the governorship she talked him into trying to be honest. It was fatal.

That's how you get the story as Big Dan, now a barkeep in a tropic cutie, tells it to a torrid rhumba cutie (Duna) and a suicide-bent youngster (Heydt) who had been dishonest for "one crazy minute" just as Dan for one crazy minute had been honest.

There are no big names in the cast, but there's more good acting than in a raft of epics. The Angelus girl is strikingly good. Donlevy is a riot. Tamiroff and Demarest as the politicians are perfect. But the real star is Sturges, who wrote the story and directed the picture (his first) to bring out every laugh, every satirical jibe, and every story value.

Based on a century-old play, "The Fallen Saved," and played straight, this is a novelty which doesn't quite come off. The audience is invited to hiss the villain and cheer the virtuous, just as in various stage presentations re-viewing the lush over-acting and scenery-chewing of that period.

What the screen lacks, and the theater provides, is intimacy—and beer and pretzels during the show. It's pretty funny at times, but misses badly at others.

For the sake of balancing up the hall of fame, it's a good thing Jimmy (the best) Foxx is a handy guy out there on the ball field.

Jimmy seems a dead-eyed cinch to make the Cooperstown institution when he finally winds up his grand career. However, since there already are two first sackers in the hall of fame—Lou Gehrig and George Sisler—and since Jimmy generally has been regarded as a first-baseman, that particular niche is going to be somewhat overcrowded.

But Jimmy has filled in ably at third base in his time, has pitched some and done outfield patrol, when needed. Right now he's catching for the Boston Red Sox, simply because there's no other able-bodied citizen around who can handle the assignment.

Foxx's latest contribution to his record as one of the game's never-to-be-forgotten fellows is in boosting his lifetime total of home runs to 495 with a pair of four-baggers in yesterday's ten-inning 7-6 decision over the Washington Senators.

This puts him in second place among the homer-hammerers of all time, ahead of old Iron Horse Gehrig, who wound up with 494, and leaves only Babe Ruth out in front. The Babe hit 714.

"The beast's" second wallop yesterday broke up the ball game, and enabled the Sox to pick up a game in their chase after the Detroit Tigers for second place in the American League race. Jimmy Dykes' Chicago White Sox exploded a nine-run firecracker on Detroit's Tommy Bridges in the eighth inning to breeze in with a 13-4 win.

This loss, coupled with Cleveland's 8-3 decision over the St. Louis Browns, in which Rapid Robert Feller flipped his 21st victory, boosted the Tribe's American League lead to three games.

Cincinnati's Reds also did a little lead-boosting in the National League. They climbed over the Chicago Cubs for 26 hits and a sweep of a doubleheader, 9-4 and 6-3, to skyrocket 6½ games out in front.

The double defeat dropped the Cubs to sixth place in the flag chase and boosted the St. Louis Cardinals to fifth. The Cards broke even with the Pittsburgh Pirates, losing the first game 6-5 and taking the afternoon 9-5. Elbie Fletcher's single produced the Pirates' winning run in ninth inning of the first game. The Pirate twirlers couldn't find the plate in the finale and walked nine men.

A total of 33,590 customers jammed Ebbets Field for Freddy Fitzsimmons' "night," and after fat Freddy received a variety of gifts, the Boston Bees nipped the second-place Dodgers 2-1 on Buddy Hassett's 12th inning single.

Hal Schumacher settled down after giving up two runs in the first inning and hurled an eight-hitter for a 5-3 victory for the New York Giants over the futile Phillies.

BIMMIE FAVORED OVER FIELD IN TRAVERS STAKE

By BOB McCORMICK
Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Bimble's latest attempt to clinch the three-year old championship and the first meeting of a pair of unbeaten, two-year old fillies combined today to give the nation's oldest racetrack its best card, and crowd, in years.

Not since Jim Dandy, at 100 to 1, whipped both Gallant Fox and Whirlone in the Travers of 1930 has Saratoga's society racetrack seen such a crowd. More than 24,000 paid their way into the course that day, and indications are that almost as many will be on hand for today's eight-race program.

It's a toss-up between Bimble's latest run for the three year old grown in the 1940 Travers and the meeting between Level Best, which many feel is the year's outstanding juvenile, and Nasca in the Spinway as the day's number one feature.

In the $20,000 Travers at a mile and a quarter, Bimble, star of Colonel E. R. Bradley's string, is top-weighted at 128 pounds. With Don Meade replacing F. A. Smith in the saddle, the son of Black Toney is favored to beat the eight horses running against him.

His best competition should come from Mrs. George D. Widener's Your Chance, winner of the Kenner here recently and a fast closing second to Bimble himself in the Belmont Stakes last spring. Your Chance will carry 122 pounds with the veteran rider, Harry Richards, aboard.

Other highly regarded three-year olds scheduled to go to the post in the nation's oldest stake include the Wheatley stable-Belair Stud's trio of Fenelon, Snow Ridge and Asp, the Manhasset stable's Call to Colors and John Hay Whitney's Gramps. All save Fenelon will carry 112 pounds. Fenelon has 122.

Opposing Crispin Ogilby's Level Best and Breckenridge Long's Nasca, the unbeaten ones in the Spinway are Mrs. Payne Whitney's Tangled and Hal Price Headley's Pelisse, among others. Level Best is the top weight of the field with 119 for the six furlongs with Tangled and Nasca carrying 116. Pelisse has 113.

SNEAD SETS HOT PACE IN CANADA OPEN TOURNEY

Toronto, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The golfer who finally brings the Canadian Open championship back to Canada is going to be quite a hero—but there's no prospect of that taking place in the near future.

The plight of the Canadian pro in his own tournament is this: Not since 1914, before play was suspended during the last war, has a Canadian won the title. The crack pros from the United States then took over the event and the bottom fell out of the scoring.

This year Sammy Snead, carrying a red-hot putter along with his mighty driver, has been setting a dizzy pace for the first two rounds. He clipped four strokes off the Scarborough par with a 67 the first time around then made it 66 yesterday for a 133 total.

But if Snead's putting should falter, there's Ray Mangrum and Harold (Jug) McSpaden, the defending champion, ready to take command and plenty of others whose chances are as good as those of the Canadian leaders. Mangrum, with a pair of 69s and McSpaden, with 60-69, held second and third places while the leading Canadian, Stan Horne of Montreal, has 68-72-140.

When the field was reduced to the 63 players who had 156s or better for today's final 36 holes, Horne, Sam Kerr of Toronto, who had 141, and his brother Bill Kerr, with 142 were the only Canadians anywhere near the top. Sam Kerr was tested for fifth place with Dick Metz and Paul Runyan while Vic Ghezzi and Ky Laffoon were one stroke behind Bill.

National Forge Nine Meets Olean In Twin Bill At Irvine Field

National Forge baseballers face a stiff test at Wilder Field, Irvine, tomorrow afternoon when they cross bats with the Olean team of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

Formerly the Allegany, N. Y., representative in the circuit, the visiting team has been reorganized under Olean colors and has been strengthened considerably, according to reports.

The Forgers have been setting a fast pace throughout the season, being well over the 700 mark in the won-and-lost totals. They are expected to start Freddy Gagliardi in one of tomorrow's games, with Hank Wise or Caffrey getting the nod in the other.

The Irvine team also is looking forward to a real tussle next Friday night when the famed House of David team brings its portable lighting plant to Wilder Field.

Benton Harbor's shavessons wonder have many outstanding performers in their lineup and should show fans some top-notch baseball. It is expected that the season's biggest crowd will be attracted by this game.

Tomorrow's program will get under way at two o'clock.

Sports Round-up

By EDDIE BRIETZ
New York, Aug. 17.—Ward Coff, the N. Y. Giant back, isn't a hold-out, as reported. . . Wes Ferrell has changed his mind about becoming a golf pro and instead will get married next month and try for a baseball comeback. Says his arm is stronger than in three years. . . Football double headers are being scheduled by Tampa U. . . And the Harvard team has one strike on it already with rehearsals due to start Friday, Sept. 13. . . Taking his cue from Ted Williams, old man Mose Grove says he is going to sock one of the Boston scribes smack on the kisser so he can get himself a write-up.

Question Box
When owner Alva Bradley held his appearance meeting with the Cleveland cry babies some time back, did he ask Oscar Vitt to leave the room and then appoint a committee of three players to "keep me informed on how Vitt behaves towards you?"

Take-A-Bow Dept.
In 1933 the number of minor leagues in the U. S. had reached a new low of 11. Now there are 41, which shows you how Judge W. G. Brannan, czar of the bushes, drags 'em in by the ears.

Beantown fans could scarcely believe their eyes the other morning when they awoke to find Rowell of the Boos and Finney of the Red Sox leading the two big leagues in batting. . . Lots of talk at Saratoga about a new hossa track to be built in the Los Angeles area, possibly in the San Fernando Valley sector. . . They are deemphasizing sports in such a big way at Louisiana state they have even fired Al Smith, one of the best press agents in the south.

Today's Guest Star
Jack Miley, N. Y. Post: "If his noodle swells another inch, Master Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox won't be able to get his hat on without a shoe horn."

Sports Cocktail
All we've got to say about last night's blowout for Freddy Fitzsimmons is that it couldn't have happened to a nicer guy. . . Jackie Hayes of the White Sox has visited 10 doctors in quest of the correct diagnosis for his bum right eye. Last five agreed it is a cataract. . . Paddy Driscoll, Marquette coach, will buy drinks for the house if you can show him a better center than his Ray Apolskis or a better end than Don Voshers. . . Arturo Godoy's next start likely will be against either Max Baer or Lee Savold. . . Doc Carlson of Pittsburgh, inventor of the famous figure eight in basketball, will let other coaches in on his formula at the eastern basketball clinic at Manhattan beach next week.

SPORT SCATTERINGS

By El Huidun
Well, here we are at the end of the week and the end of our little pinch-hitting chore for Sports Editor Bill Rice. It has been a busy week and a good one, as far as the local sports scene is concerned. Glancing back over the past week we find that two outstanding accomplishments were hailed by followers of athletics. The first was the Monday decision of the school board to start the fencing project at Russell Field. The second came on Tuesday evening when the Red Jackets board decided to carry on independent football here this fall. Other highlights of the week were the announcement that a tennis tournament will be held here and last, but far from least, today's appearance at the Coneywold Valley Country Club of Lawson Little, U. S. Open golf champ.

One result of the school board's action in starting the fence at Russell Field is expected to be the revival of agitation for a Warren team in the PONY League. Ever since the circuit was formed there has been talk of a local franchise in the league. A year ago the possibility of Warren getting into the circuit seemed very remote. As time goes on, however, the prospects look brighter and brighter. With a fence around most of the field, it should be an easy matter to enclose the remainder of the field sufficiently to keep out the non-paying public. Lighting equipment could be obtained at a reasonable figure. Down in Oil City they raised enough money almost overnight to get into the Penn State Association. It seems to us that a properly conducted drive could do the same for Warren in the PONY League. At least, it's worth thinking about.

"Heggie" Schmidt, the local young man who is handling the coaching duties at Smethport High, says you just can't win. Not so long ago he was bemoaning the fact that three of his football lettermen were leaving the school, putting a crimp in his gridiron hopes for the coming season. Now he learns that another promising gridder will be missing from the ranks, having recently undergone an operation that will keep him out of action. With four red-hot prospects out of action, Heggie says he doesn't look for much of a year for Smethport. But then, like all coaches, Heggie keeps a towel handy at all times and we're not too sure that the McKean county school will fare as badly as he would like us to believe.

Some pitchers brag about twirling one shutout game. Well, here's one who pitched a pair of them on the same night! He's Earl Cook, veteran of eight year's service in the International League. He turned in his iron-man stunt Thursday night when, hurrying for Buffalo, he twice blanked Jersey City by the identical scores of 2-0. The first game was seven innings. The six-foot 28-year-old right-hander yielded only eleven hits in the two games, did not issue a pass and allowed only three Jersey City runners to reach third base. The double win gave him a total of 11 victories for the season.

It's the truth: The Red Jackets board is having trouble finding the proper person who is willing to assume the fiscal duties for coming season. . . Our guess is that Freddy Gebhardt will be prevailed upon to take over. . . Some of the local gridiron followers are suggesting a special bus to Erie on the night of August 30th when the Pittsburgh Steelers meet the Chicago Bears in a pro game. . . How many are willing? . . . Talk is already going around in support of the revival of the Sunset League for next summer. . . Agitation for a swimming pool here also is heard. . . Tomorrow is the day the Red Jackets find out if they have a new coach. . . The Fraternal Softball League is getting set for its championship series between the Elks No. 1 and the K. of C. No. 1, which should provide some hot battles.

O'BRIEN SCORES IN INTRA-CAMP BATTLE

West Chester, Pa., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Davey O'Brien is the same "Davey" who thrilled pro football crowds last year by setting forward passing records.

The former Texas Christian flash scored two touchdowns last night to lead the "blue" team to a 14-7 victory over the "gold" in an intra-camp struggle at the Philadelphia Eagles camp before 2,500.

O'Brien got his first six-pointer on a 42-yard run and the other on a knife off tackle for six yards.

REACHES FINAL IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Erie, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Gordon Robinson of Stamford, Conn., defeated Dick Ship, Harrisburg, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4 to reach the final of the Great Lakes Tennis Tournament yesterday. The other finalist is Bill Maul of Detroit.

Ship and J. Kilgus of Brockway, Pa., won their semi-final doubles match, upsetting Maul and Tom North, Detroit, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

Jackie Kerr, Los Angeles, won the junior singles title by eliminating Bernie Mathieson of Koppel, Pa., 6-3, 6-1.

BIMMIE FAVORED OVER FIELD IN TRAVERS STAKE

By BOB McCORMICK

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(P)—Bimmie's latest attempt to clinch the three-year old championship and the first meeting of a pair of unbeaten two-year old fillies combined today to give the nation's oldest racetrack its best card, and crowd, in years. Not since Jim Dandy, at 100 to 1, whipped both Gallant Fox and Whirlaway in the Travers of 1930 has Saratoga's society racetrack seen such a crowd. More than 24,000 paid their way into the course that day, and indications are that almost as many will be on hand for today's eight-race program.

It's a toss-up between Bimmie's latest run for the three year old grown in the 1940 Travers and the meeting between Level Best, which many feel is the year's outstanding juvenile, and Nasca in the Spinaway as the day's number one feature.

In the $20,000 Travers at a mile and a quarter, Bimmie, star of Colonel E. R. Bradley's string, is top-weighted at 128 pounds. With Don Meade replacing F. A. Smith in the saddle, the son of Black Toney is favored to beat the eight horses running against him.

His best competition should come from Mrs. George D. Widener's Your Chance, winner of the Kenner here recently and a fast closing second to Bimmie himself in the Belmont Stakes last spring. Your Chance will carry 122 pounds with the veteran rider, Harry Richards, aboard.

Other highly regarded three-year olds scheduled to go to the line in the nation's oldest stake include the Wheatley, Fitch-Belair Stud's trio of Fenelon, Snow Bird and Asp, the Manhasset stable's Call to Colors and John Hay Whitney's Gramps. All save Fenelon will carry 112 pounds. Fenelon has 122.

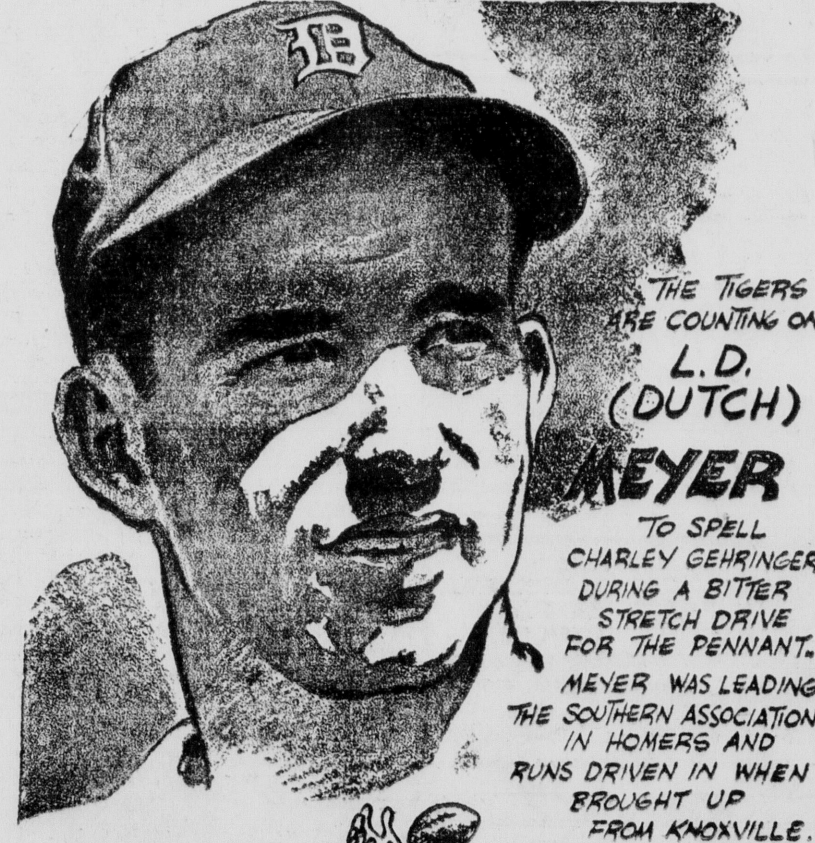

Opposing Crispin Oglebay's Level Best and Breckenridge Long's Nasca, the unbeaten ones, in the Spinaway are Mrs. Payne Whitney's Tangled and Hal Price Headley's Pelisse, among others. Level Best is the top weight of the field with 119 for the six furlongs with Tangled and Nasca carrying 116. Pelisse has 113.

Well, here we are at the end of the week and the end of our little pinch-hitting chore for Sports Editor Bill Rice. SNEAD SETS HOT PACE IN CANADA OPEN TOURNEY

Toronto, Aug. 17.—(P)—The golfer who finally brings the Canadian Open championship back to Canada is going to be quite a hero—but there's no prospect of that taking place in the near future.

The plight of the Canadian pro in his own tournament is this: Not since 1914, before play was suspended during the last war, has a Canadian won the title. The crack pros from the United States then took over the event and the bottom fell out of the scoring.

This year Sammy Snead, carrying a red-hot putter along with his mighty driver, has been setting a dizzy pace for the first two rounds. He clipped four strokes off the Scarborough par with a 67 the first time around then made it 66 yesterday for a 133 total.

But if Snead's putting should falter, there's Ray Mangrum and Harold (Jug) McSpaden, the defending champion, ready to take command and plenty of others whose chances are as good as those of the Canadian leaders.

Mangrum, with a pair of 69s and McSpaden, with 60-69, held second and third places while the leading Canadian, Stan Horne of Montreal, has 68-72—140.

When the field was reduced to the 63 players who had 159s or better for today's final 36 holes, Sam Kerr of Toronto, who had 141, and his brother Bill Kerr, with 142 were the only Canadians anywhere near the top. Sam Kerr was tested for fifth place with Dick Metz and Paul Runyan while Vic Ghezzi and Ky Lafoon were one stroke behind Bill.

OX ROAST FEATURED AT JALLOPY RACES

Jamestown, N. Y., Aug. 17.—As a special feature Sunday afternoon, the management of Satan's Bowl of Death, Big Tree-Sugar Grove Road, will present its second annual free ox roast in addition to the regular program of jallopy races.

Last week the jallopy cars had a day off and the sponsors presented midget auto races to a crowd of 3,500 persons at the Jamestown speedway.

Tomorrow afternoon, the racing card will include six elimination races, a consolation event and the fifteen-lap feature event.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press

Jimmy Foxx, Red Sox—His second homer of game, in tenth inning, downed Senators 7-6.

Whitey Moore and Johnny Hittchings, Reds—Former pitched eight-hitter to beat Cubs 9-4 in opener; latter hurled shutout ball in 5-2-3 inning relief trick in nightcap.

Bob Feller, Indians—After shaky start allowed only six hits in last seven innings to trounce Browns 8-3.

Elbie Fletcher, Pirates, and Enos Slaughter, Cardinals—Former's ninth inning single drove in winning run for 6-5 opener victory; Slaughter hit two triples, drove in two runs, in 9-5 nightcap triumph.

SETS RECORD

Hershey, Pa., Aug. 17.—(A)—Johnny Macionis, former Yale swimmer, splashed to a new Middle Atlantic AAU 440-yard freestyle record of 4:55.3 in winning the feature event of an invitation meet here Friday night. Macionis now represents the Big Brothers Association of Philadelphia.

PLAY HIS HORSES

Los Angeles—Graceton Philpot, former jockey who turned trainer, saddled 22 winners in the first 34 days of racing at the Hollywood Park meeting.

National Forge Nine Meets Olean In Twin Bill At Irvine Field

National Forge baseballers face a stiff test at Wilder Field, Irvine, tomorrow afternoon when they cross bats with the Olean team of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

Formerly the Allegany, N. Y., representative in the circuit, the visiting team has been reorganized under Olean colors and has been strengthened considerably, according to reports.

The Forgers have been setting a fast pace throughout the season, being well over the 700 mark in the won-and-lost totals. They are expected to start Freddy Gagliardi in one of tomorrow's games, with Hank Wise or Caffrey getting the nod in the other.

The Irvine team also is looking forward to a real tussle next Friday night when the famed House of David team brings its portable lighting plant to Wilder Field.

Benton Harbor's shavenshew wonders have many outstanding performers in their lineup and should show fans some top-notch baseball. It is expected that the season's biggest crowd will be attracted by this game.

Tomorrow's program will get under way at two o'clock.

Sports Round-up

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Aug. 17.—Ward Cluff, the N. Y. Giant back, isn't a hold-out, as reported. Wes Farrell has changed his mind about becoming a golf pro and instead will get married next month and try for a baseball comeback. Says his arm is stronger than in three years. . . . Football double headers are being scheduled by Tampa U. . . . And the Harvard team has one strike on it already with rehearsals due to start Friday, Sept. 13. . . . Taking his cue from Ted Williams, old man Mose Grove says he is going to sock one of the Boston scribes smack on the kisser so he can get himself a write-up.

Question Box

When owner Alva Bradley held his appeasement meeting with the Cleveland cry babies some time back, did he ask Oscar Vitt to leave the room and then appoint a committee of three players to "keep me informed on how Vitt behaves towards you?"

Take-A-Bow Dept.

In 1933 the number of minor leagues in the U. S. had reached a new low of 11. Now there are 41, which shows you how Judge W. G. Bramham, czar of the bushes, drags 'em in by the ears. . . . Beantown fans could scarcely believe their eyes the other morning when they awoke to find Rowell of the Boos and Finney of the Red Sox leading the two big leagues in batting. . . . Lots of talk at Saratoga about a new horse track to be built in the Los Angeles area, possibly in the San Fernando Valley sector. . . . Sports Cocktail

All we've got to say about last night's blowout for Freddie Fitzsimmons is that it couldn't have happened to a nicer guy. . . . Jackie Hayes of the White Sox has visited 10 doctors in quest of the correct diagnosis for his bum right eye. Last five agreed it is a cataract. . . . Paddy Driscoll, Marquette coach, will buy drinks for the house if you can show him a better center than his Ray Apolskis or a better end than Don Vosberg. . . . Arturo Godoy's next start likely will be against either Max Baer or Lee Savold. . . . WPA Handling a Handicap to Dem Campaign

(From Page One)

Meyers said the conferees had not asked for dismissal of Col. Mathews as state WPA administrator.

Mathews, away for the weekend at his farm in Connecticut, could not be reached for a statement.

Meyers said, however: "There won't be any effort made to line up the WPA for the election. The Hatch act has done away with that."

"But if Mr. Roosevelt comes in to Pennsylvania three or four times before the election, I think that may make up the difference."

The state chairman said the president told them he would make four appearances in Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia Sept. 20 at the University of Pennsylvania, once each in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh to inspect national defense industries, and around Oct. 1 to dedicate the new Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Ford to Build Plane Engines

While the defense commission reported in Washington that a contract had not been "cleared" officially, that step was considered merely a formality in the light of Ford's statement.

Neither Ford nor any of his engineering staff at Dearborn would say when the motors could be put into production, but Ford emphasized that the undertaking would not interfere in any way with his plans to build his own type of airplane, powered with his own 12-cylinder, 1,500 horsepower liquid-cooled motor.

Presumably the Ford engineering department will lose no time in getting the 4,000 order for the government under way. It was recalled today that Ford engineers had drafted a complete factory "lay-out" several weeks ago, in anticipation of an order for mass production of Rolls-Royce Merlin type engines.

FRENCH CREEK HAS DROWNING ACCIDENT

Meadville, Aug. 17.—(P)—Stanley Grolah, 60, Canonsburg, Pa., coal miner drowned today in French Creek near here in an attempt to aid two fishing companions he apparently believed were in trouble.

Grolah, father of six children, waded into the water beyond his depth while his companions, Martin Zeman, 55, and Chester Smith, both of Canonsburg, were diving to recover fishing tackle that fell into the water a few minutes earlier when their boat overturned.

AIRPORT NEWS

The CPTP ground school classes conducted by the King Air Service have been stepped up to double time and another ground school instructor added to the staff in the person of C. W. Rogers. As a man whose outstanding personality alone marks him as an instructor, Mr. Rogers will teach Aircraft Engines, Aircraft Instruments, Aircraft Radio, and assist Mr. Mathis in the subject of Navigation. The usual two classes will be run three nights per week except at the end of the first period the students will exchange classes and thus each student will receive four hours instruction per night instead of the usual two hours. This doubling up of class work is necessary in order to complete the seventy-two hours of class study by the fifteenth of September. Flight class will start Oct. 1 and in the meantime plans are being made for another ground school class which will be organized and run off while the first flight class is being conducted.

Helen M. Walker just returned from taking a refresher course for instructors at the Butler-Pittsburgh Airport and will serve as a flight instructor in the organization. She and her husband, Henry O. Walker, along with many others have played an important part in assisting in the development of our airport and the expansion of our business in the past five years.

The question was asked the other day why the word "specialized" student instruction was used in the emblems on the sides of our ships. To clarify this point in the mind of any one who seemingly does not understand, we feel that to be specialized in an art requires not only training but background of experience and we have just that plus an approved government flight and ground school training program.

We wish to extend an invitation to those who are interested in aviation to attend our ground school classes and visit our airport and see and talk with these young men and women who are now being trained for the jobs in aviation of tomorrow. If you can not fly, be alarmed when they are rough etc., and then you will be an encouragement to our greatly needed cause and a new and intensely interesting subject will be brought to your attention.

Mrs. Edith Seavy has returned to her home here after having spent the past several weeks visiting relatives and friends in Meadville and Sagertown.

Apology Said to Have Been Given by Italy

calling up for Aug. 20 a group of reservists which military quarters said includes anti-aircraft gunners and observers.

Rome, Aug. 17.—(P)—Italy, through her authoritative press, today declared the battle for British Somaliland in East Africa could now be considered won, and served notice on pro-British Greece to answer claims in behalf of Italian-annexed Albania "or suffer the consequences."

The Italian high command reported the British in full retreat in Somaliland. Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia asserted that British territory soon would be incorporated in Italy's African empire and pointedly warned Greece to "define her position" immediately on Albanian claims.

The newspaper indicated Greece would be called upon formally within a few days to say yes or no to claims for territory along the Greek-Albanian border.

While official Italian communiqués reported a full British retreat in Somaliland, Gayda wrote in the newspaper Il Giornale D'Italia, that, within a few days, the colony would cease to form a part of the British empire and would be combined in the economic and military organization of Italian East Africa.

The Italian High Command today said that bloody fighting in Somaliland had reached its "culminating point" in a general British retreat.

It said British warships in the harbor had been subjected to a heavy attack in the Alexandria bombing yesterday.

Legion Favors Adoption Of Conscription

word that "The Legion will march, rain or shine, and there will be no setting back of the parade time, which is 1:30 o'clock."

At the opening of their final session today, the 1076 delegates rejected a resolution denouncing Sidney Hillman, member of the National Defense Commission, and Harry Hopkins, secretary of commerce, and opposing their continuation in office "because of their previous radical records."

Preliminaries to the election were disposed of yesterday with the nominations of Thomas E. Williams, Kingston, head of the state bureau of vital statistics, and Charles S. Cook, Pittston, state police lieutenant.

Eleven state commanders were William J. Rhoad, Norwood, Delaware county, eastern district; James P. Murray, Forest City, central, and Daniel C. Hartbauer, Pittsburgh, western.

Earlier, delegates heard Governor Arthur H. James warn that this nation "must not follow France's example of fatal complacency."

The auxiliary which yesterday elected Mrs. Arthur Beaver, Dayton, as president, heard brief talks by Governor James, Paul Taggart, department finance officer of the Legion, Mrs. Frances Stratton, Coatesville, and Mrs. Frances Beard, Reading.

ACCEPTANCE ADDRESS WILL BE BRIEF

the honor of informing Willkie of his nomination.

The presidential candidate prepared a 30-minute speech outlining his views on domestic and foreign issues. He will return to Rushville this evening for the weekend.

Willkie's portrait was emblazoned on circular panels on each downtown light post. In front of the high school which bears the legend "The Hope of Our Country," a speaking platform was erected.

In the park, more elaborate arrangements were completed just in time for the festivities. For the background of the platform, there was a long white wall, splashed with red stars and flags. In front of this, 35,000 seats were placed, with plenty of standing room in the rear.

Around the park were tents in which every kind of food from fish to watermelon could be purchased. Special water mains were run into the grounds to take care of the thirsty, and parking lots were provided both there and in adjacent cornfields, where stalks had been newly cut down.

It was a day to which Elwood had been looking forward for nearly two months.

promote closer ties among cultural groups in the American nations. He has been interested in South America for several years, recently organizing at the request of the Venezuelan government a company which is developing new industries there and building a new hotel at the capital, Caracas.

Rockefeller, who has traveled extensively in South America, obtained leave of absence as president of Rockefeller Center, Inc., in New York, and resigned as director of several South American enterprises to devote his time to his new duties.

White House officials said Rockefeller would serve as "another $1-a-year man."

STOCKS FOLLOW NARROW COURSE

New York, Aug. 17.—(P)—Leading stocks crawled over a narrow course in today's market as traders waited for developments in the battle of England.

While speculative contingents seemed a bit less nervous than in the preceding session—many still retained the hope Britain would be able to withstand the terrific air onslaughts of the Nazis—the majority inclined to keep commitments light pending more definite information from abroad.

Germany's announcement of a complete blockade of the British Isles, together with persistence of the Hitler bombing blasts, served to inspire additional caution.

The president was scheduled to leave his train at Norwood, N. Y., around noon and start his inspection swing by motor car.

After attending church services for the troops, Mr. Roosevelt will board his special train at Ogdensburg, N. Y., and leave for Hyde Park, N. Y., to spend a few days at his country estate.

To Review 28th With Governor

White House officials announced last night, after Mr. Roosevelt had left Washington, that he would confer with Mackenzie King.

Mr. Roosevelt's dinner with Mackenzie King was to follow an afternoon devoted to visiting encampments of the first army and the National Guard, which have been engaged in mock war around Ogdensburg for a fortnight.

The president was scheduled to leave his train at Norwood, N. Y., around noon and start his inspection swing by motor car.

After attending church services for the troops, Mr. Roosevelt will board his special train at Ogdensburg, N. Y., and leave for Hyde Park, N. Y., to spend a few days at his country estate.

WPA Handling a Handicap to Dem Campaign

Meysers said the conferees had not asked for dismissal of Col. Mathews as state WPA administrator.

Mathews, away for the weekend at his farm in Connecticut, could not be reached for a statement. Meysers said, however:

"There won't be any effort made to line up the WPA for the election. The Hatch act has done away with that."

"But if Mr. Roosevelt comes in to Pennsylvania three or four times before the election, I think that may make up the difference."

The state chairman said the president told them he would make four appearances in Pennsylvania; in Philadelphia Sept. 20 at the University of Pennsylvania, once each in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh to inspect national defense industries, and around Oct. 1 to dedicate the new Pennsylvania Turnpike.

While the defense commission reported in Washington that a contract had not been "cleared" officially, that step was considered merely a formality in the light of Ford's statement.

Neither Ford nor any of his engineering staff at Dearborn would say when the motors could be put into production, but Ford emphasized that the undertaking would not interfere in any way with his plans to build his own type of airplane, powered with his own 12-cylinder, 1,500 horsepower liquid-cooled motor.

Presumably the Ford engineering department will lose no time in getting the 4,000 order for the government under way. It was recalled today that Ford engineers had drafted a complete factory "lay-out" several weeks ago, in anticipation of an order for mass production of Rolls-Royce Merlin type engines.

FRENCH CREEK HAS DROWNING ACCIDENT

Meadville, Aug. 17.—(P)—Stanley Grohal, 60, a Canonsburg, Pa., coal miner drowned today in French Creek near here in an attempt to aid two fishing companions who apparently believed were in trouble.

Grohal, father of six children, waded into the water beyond his depth while his companions, Martin Zeman, 55, and Chester Smith, both of Canonsburg, were diving to recover fishing tackle that fell into the water a few minutes earlier when their boat overturned.

AIRPORT NEWS

The CPTP ground school classes conducted by the King Air Service have been stepped up to double time and another ground school instructor added to the staff in the person of C. W. Rogers. As a man whose outstanding personality marks him as an instructor, Mr. Rogers will teach Aircraft Engines, Aircraft Instruments, Aircraft Radio, and assist Mr. Mathis in the subject of Navigation. The usual two classes will be run three nights per week except at the end of the first period the students will exchange classes and thus each student will receive four hours instruction per night instead of the usual two hours. This doubling up of class work is necessary in order to complete the necessary two hours of class study by the fifteenth of September. Flight class will start Oct. 1 and in the meantime plans are being made for another ground school class which will be organized and run while the first flight class is being conducted.

Helen M. Walker just returned from taking a refresher course for instructors at the Butler-Pittsburgh Airport and will serve as a flight instructor in the organization. She and her husband, Henry O. Walker, along with many others have played an important part in assisting in the development of our airport and the expansion of our business in the past five years.

The question was asked the other day why the word "specialized" student instruction was used in the emblems on the sides of our ships. To clarify this point in the mind of any one who seemingly does not understand, we feel that to be specialized in an art requires not only training but background of experience and we have just that plus an approved government flight and ground school training program.

We wish to extend an invitation to those who are interested in aviation to attend our ground school classes and visit our airport and see and talk with these young men and women who are now being trained for the jobs in aviation of tomorrow. If you can not fly, be air-minded with them. Learn what makes an airplane fly, how they descend, why some flights are smooth and others are rough etc., and then you will be an encouragement to our greatly needed cause and a new and intensely interesting subject will be brought to your attention.

Apology Said to Have Been Given by Italy

calling up for Aug. 20 a group of reservists which military quarters said includes anti-aircraft gunners and observers.

Rome, Aug. 17.—(P)—Italy, through her authoritative press, today declared the battle for British Somaliland in East Africa could now be considered won, and served notice on pro-British Greece to answer claims in behalf of Italian-annexed Albania "or suffer the consequences."

The Italian high command reported the British in full retreat in Somaliland. Premier Mussolini asserted that British territory soon would be incorporated in Italy's African empire and pointedly warned Greece to "define her position" immediately on Albanian claims.

The newspaper indicated Greece would be called upon formally within a few days to say yes or no to claims for territory along the Greek-Albanian border.

While official Italian communiques reported a full British retreat in Somaliland, Gayda wrote in the newspaper Il Giornale D'Italia, that, within a few days, the colony would cease to form a part of the British empire and would be combined in the economic and military organization of Italian East Africa.

The Italian High Command today said that bloody fighting in Somaliland had reached its "culminating point" in a general British retreat.

It said British warships in the harbor had been subjected to a heavy attack in the Alexandria bombing yesterday.

Legion Favors Adoption Of Conscription

word that "the Legion will march, rain or shine, and there will be no striking back of the parade time, which is 1:30 o'clock."

At the opening of their final session today, the 1,076 delegates rejected a resolution denouncing Sidney Hillman, member of the National Defense Commission, and Harry Hopkins, secretary of commerce, and opposing their continuation in office "because of their previous radical records."

Preliminaries to the election were disposed of yesterday with the nomination of Thomas E. Williams, Kingston, head of the state bureau of vital statistics, and Charles S. Cook, Pittston, state police lieutenant.

Elected vice commanders were William J. Rhoad, Norwood, Delaware county, eastern district; James P. Murray, Forrest City, central, and Daniel C. Hartbauer, Pittsburgh, western.

Earlier, delegates heard Governor Arthur H. James warn that this nation "must not follow France's example of fatal complacency."

The auxiliary which yesterday elected Mrs. Arthur Beaver, Dravosburg, as president heard brief talks by Governor James, Paul Dague, department finance officer of the Legion, Mrs. Frances Stratton, Coatesville, and Mrs. Frances Beard, Reading.

the honor of informing Willkie of his nomination.

The presidential candidate prepared a 30-minute speech outlining his views on domestic and foreign issues. He will return to Rushville this evening for the weekend.

Willkie's portrait was emblazoned on circular panels on each downtown light post. In front of the high school which bears the legend "The Hope of Our Country," a speaking platform was erected.

In the park, more elaborate arrangements were completed just in time for the festivities. For the backdrop of the platform, there was a long white wall, splashed with red stars and flags. In front of this, 35,000 seats were placed, with plenty of standing room in the rear.

Around the park were tents in which every kind of food from fish to watermelon could be purchased. Special water mains were run into the grounds to take care of the thirsty, and parking lots were provided both there and in adjacent areas where stalls had been newly cut down.

It was a day to which Elwood had been looking forward for nearly two months.

STOCKS FOLLOW NARROW COURSE

New York, Aug. 17.—(P)—Leading stocks crawled over a narrow course in today's market as traders waited for developments in the battle of England.

While speculative contingents seemed a bit less nervous than in the preceding session—many still retained the hope Britain would be able to withstand the terrific air onslaughts of the Nazis—the majority inclined to keep commitments light pending more definite information from abroad.

Germany's announcement of a complete blockade of the British Isles, together with persistence of the Hitler bombing blasts, served to inspire additional caution.

To Review 28th With Governor

(From Page One)
White House officials announced last night, after Mr. Roosevelt had left Washington, that he would confer with MacKenzie King.

Mr. Roosevelt's dinner, with MacKenzie King was to follow an afternoon devoted to visiting announcements of the first army and the National Guard, which have been engaged in mock war around Ogdensburg for a fortnight.

The president was scheduled to leave his train at Norwood, N. Y., around noon and start his inspection swing by motor car.

After attending church services for the troops, Mr. Roosevelt will board his special train at Ogdensburg Sunday, and leave for Hyde Park, N. Y., to spend a few days at his country estate.

DISTRICT HEAD OF ROTARY TO SPEAK MONDAY

M. E. McDowell, of Bradford, who is engaged in the printing and office supply business and is a member of the Rotary Club of that city, will attend the meeting of the Warren Rotary Club on Monday in his official capacity as governor of the 175th Rotary district, of which Warren is a part.

Prior to the meeting he will meet with President Ogden Fitz-Simons, Secretary Paul Braunschweiger and other officers and members of the local Rotary Club to consult with them and advise on matters relating to the club administration and Rotary service activities.

Mr. McDowell was elected to the office of district governor at the 1940 Rotary convention which was held in Havana, Cuba, during June. He will continue to serve until the 1941 convention in Denver.

The 5,000 Rotary Clubs of more than 60 countries of the world were grouped into 149 districts. The 175th district, of which the local club is a part, consists of 34 clubs in the counties of Erie, Crawford, Mercer, Lawrence, Venango, Butler, Warren, Forest, Clarion, Armstrong, McKean, Jefferson and Indiana and parts of Elk and Clearfield counties. The district has a membership of approximately 1,400.

KEY FIGURES IN WEIRD SHOOTING

Two sisters, Mrs. Otis Cumberland, 36, (with glasses) and Mrs. Elizabeth Pettit, 25, upper left, are under charges in Waynesburg of shooting Mrs. Robert Headley, 44, five times while posing as robbers, dressed in men's clothes. Deputy Sheriff Jack Grudoff, who filed the charges, said Headley and Mrs. Cumberland had been friendly. Headley denied during lengthy questioning that he knew anything of a shooting plot. At top right are John C. Cole, a farmer, and his daughter, Oona, neighbors of the Headley's. The shooting occurred Tuesday night at the home to the right of the cottage shown below. Make Plans for 'Pennsylvania Days' As Promotional Campaign for State

Harrisburg, Aug. 17.—October dates have been chosen for the "Pennsylvania Days" promotional sales campaign which is being planned by retail stores of the State.

The State Department of Commerce is sponsoring the drive, which seeks to stimulate the sales and distribution of all products grown or manufactured in Pennsylvania, and thereby increase employment within the State.

The "Pennsylvania Days" sales will open Friday, October 1, and continue through Saturday, October 12.

"The selection of those dates in the harvest season of early fall," explained Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown, "will make possible the featuring of Pennsylvania crops as well as Pennsylvania manufactured goods."

"Throughout the State an appeal will be made to Pennsylvania consumers to patronize home industry, in order that their dollars may increase the employment of local workers."

"The time chosen for the sales campaign should result in a substantial increase in the purchase of agricultural products, as well as manufactured goods, by the Pennsylvania consumers."

During a similar sales drive by chain stores in March, 1939, in which Pennsylvania products were featured, the participating stores estimated they were enabled to spend $20,000,000 additional for Pennsylvania products. This year independent stores, commercial organizations and associations are joining with the Pennsylvania Chain Store Council to extend the "Pennsylvania Days" campaign into all lines of retailing.

Because of the large number of participating retailers, and because the sales will coincide with the harvest season, sponsors of the campaign estimate that 1940 "Pennsylvania Days" may result in an increase of $40,000,000 in sales of Pennsylvania products over 1939 and $20,000,000 over 1938.

"That increased volume in sales of Pennsylvania products will do much to stimulate Pennsylvania's Waynesburg, Aug. 17.—(T)—Mrs. Ada Hubb Headley, 44, seriously wounded in a bizarre "fake holdup" shooting, was reported "not quite so well" today at Greene County Memorial Hospital.

Her physician, Dr. Harry C. Scott, said Mrs. Headley's temperature had risen and her condition was "not as good as earlier."

She was shot five times in what Sheriff Henry Flowers described as a "plot" that constituted "one of the worst crimes" in the county's history.

Two women, one a friend of her husband, are to be arraigned Monday on charges they disguised themselves as men and shot Mrs. Headley during a "fake holdup."

Flowers said he expected to bring charges against Robert Headley, 49, husband of the victim, Monday, pending outcome of the injured woman's condition.

So far the sheriff has declined to say what reason the pseudo-bandits gave for the shooting.

economic life," said Secretary Brown.

"It will not only mean better business for our farmers and manufacturers, and more work for Pennsylvania employees, to prepare and sell the goods for this year's sales; but it also will mean much for the future. By making Pennsylvania consumers more familiar with what their own State grows and makes, this year's sales should mean that in future years there will be a greater demand, greater sales and greater production for Pennsylvania products, with resultant increased employment for a long time to come."

A BANK'S DUTY TO ITS DEPOSITORS

The American Bankers Association in its Statement of Principles of Commercial Banking says, "The safety of the funds entrusted to the bank by all of its depositors must be the foremost objective of the commercial banker." Thus banks must exercise extreme care in granting loans and making investments to safeguard deposits.

It is also our duty to render a prompt and adequate checking service for the safety and convenience of our depositors in transmitting funds.

To avoid discriminating against certain depositors by failing to require each account to pay for the service it receives, it is obviously necessary either to require balances sufficient to reimburse the bank for such services, or to make a fair charge for providing them.

We have some very interesting booklets entitled "Statement of Principles of Commercial Banking." You are welcome to ask for one at any time.

Irvine

Irvine, Aug. 13.—On Saturday, August 10, Mrs. C. L. Oviatt passed another milestone in her life and on Sunday all her children came home to help her enjoy the occasion. They were all with her to enjoy the birthday dinner—Mr. and Mrs. Tom Carr and daughters, Vivian, Betty Bell and Grace Sandra, of Franklin; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Oviatt, of Sheffield; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Oviatt and son, Keith, of Irvine. Mrs. Oviatt got lovely gifts and cards from the family and friends in Irvine and Warren, for which she feels very grateful.

On Tuesday, July 23, little Keith Oviatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Oviatt, passed his second birthday and on Wednesday evening, July 24, they had a family gathering in honor of the occasion. Delicious home-made ice cream and cake were served.

On Sunday many families visited their sons at Camp Olmsted and found the Boy Scouts enjoying themselves.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. William Hucklebone and son Harvey attended the Hucklebone reunion, held at Sheffield, with an attendance of 78. They report a very pleasant day.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson had as guests Sunday Mrs. Wilson's mother, Mrs. Wallace, and two brothers, her sister and husband and children, all from Kane.

Raymond Poppleton and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Poppleton were home from Franklin over the weekend. Mrs. Poppleton is busy getting the house ready for renters.

Hyatt Moad has gone to Franklin to work. He and his father expect to move there soon.

Misses Lucile and Katherine Bierley of Emporium are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Floyd Smith. They were accompanied by Mrs. Smith to Jamestown yesterday to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Patch and Mrs. Elmer Patch and two children visited Elmer Patch at Mt. Alto over the weekend and find him doing fine.

Mrs. Andy Randalia has a sister from Ridgway visiting her. Work on the new school building is still held up. They have done no work now for nearly two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crull and son Jimmie and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Clark have gone on a trailer trip to Virginia.

DISTRICT HEAD OF ROTARY TO SPEAK MONDAY

M. B. McDowell, of Bradford, who is engaged in the printing and office supply business and is a member of the Rotary Club of that city, will attend the meeting of the Warren Rotary Club on Monday in his official capacity as governor of the 175th Rotary district, of which Warren is a part.

Prior to the meeting he will meet with President Oden Fitz-Simons, Secretary Paul Braunschweiger and other officers and members of the local Rotary Club to consult with them and advise on matters relating to the club administration and Rotary service activities.

Mr. McDowell was elected to the office of district governor at the 1940 Rotary convention which was held in Havana, Cuba, during June. He will continue to serve until the 1941 convention in Denver.

The 5,000 Rotary Clubs of more

KEY FIGURES IN WEIRD SHOOTING

Two sisters, Mrs. Otis Cumberland, 36, (with glasses) and Mrs. Elizabeth Pettit, 25, upper left, are under charges in Waynesburg of shooting Mrs. Robert Headley, 44, five times while posing as robbers, dressed in men's clothes. Deputy Sheriff Jack Orndoff, who filed the charges, said Headley and Mrs. Cumberland had been friendly. Headley denied during lengthy questioning that he knew anything of a shooting plot. At top right are John G. Cole, a farmer, and his daughter, Ona, neighbors of the Headleys. The shooting occurred Tuesday night at the barn to the right of the cottage shown below. Make Plans for 'Pennsylvania Days' As Promotional Campaign for State

Harrisburg, Aug. 17.—October dates have been chosen for the "Pennsylvania Days" promotional sales campaign which is being planned by retail stores of the State.

The State Department of Commerce is cooperating in the drive, which seeks to stimulate the sales and distribution of all products grown or manufactured in Pennsylvania, and thereby increase employment within the State.

The "Pennsylvania Days" sales will open Friday, October 4, and continue through Saturday, October 12.

"The selection of those dates in the harvest season of early fall," explained Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown, "will make possible the featuring of Pennsylvania crops as well as Pennsylvania manufactured goods."

"Throughout the State an appeal will be made to Pennsylvania consumers to patronize home industry, in order that their dollars may increase the employment of local workers."

"The time chosen for the sales campaign should result in a substantial increase in the purchase of agricultural products, as well as manufactured goods, by the Pennsylvania consumers."

During a similar sales drive by chain stores in March, 1939, in which Pennsylvania products were featured, the participating stores estimated they were enabled to spend $20,000,000 additional for Pennsylvania products. This year independent stores, commercial organizations and associations are joining with the Pennsylvania Chain Store Council to extend the "Pennsylvania Days" campaign into all lines of retailing.

Because of the large number of participating retailers, and because the sales will coincide with the harvest season, sponsors of the campaign estimate that 1940 "Pennsylvania Days" may result in an increase of $40,000,000 in sales of Pennsylvania products over 1938 and $20,000,000 over 1939.

"That increased volume in sales of Pennsylvania products will do much to stimulate Pennsylvania's Waynesburg, Aug. 17.—(P)—Mrs. Ada Hubb Headley, 44, seriously wounded in a bizarre "fake holdup" shooting, was reported "not quite so well" today at Greene County Memorial Hospital.

Her physician, Dr. Harry C. Scott, said Mrs. Headley's temperature had risen and her condition was "not as good as earlier."

She was shot five times in what Sheriff Henry Flowers described as a "plot" that constituted "one of the worst crimes" in the county's history.

Two women, one a friend of her husband, are to be arraigned Monday on charges they disguised themselves as men and shot Mrs. Headley during a "fake holdup."

Flowers said he expected to bring charges against Robert Headley, 49, husband of the victim, Monday, pending outcome of the injured woman's condition.

So far the sheriff has declined to say what reason the pseudo-bandits gave for the shooting.

economic life," said Secretary Brown.

"It will not only mean better business for our farmers and manufacturers, and more work for Pennsylvania employees, to prepare and sell the goods for this year's sales; but it also will mean much for the future. By making Pennsylvania consumers more familiar with what their own State grows and makes, this year's sales should mean that in future years there will be a greater demand, greater sales and greater production for Pennsylvania products, with resultant increased employment for a long time to come."

A BANK'S DUTY TO ITS DEPOSITORS

The American Bankers Association in its Statement of Principles of Commercial Banking says, "The safety of the funds entrusted to the bank by all of its depositors must be the foremost objective of the commercial banker." Thus banks must exercise extreme care in granting loans and making investments to safeguard deposits.

It is also our duty to render a prompt and adequate checking service for the safety and convenience of our depositors in transmitting funds.

To avoid discriminating against certain depositors by failing to require each account to pay for the service it receives, it is obviously necessary either to require balances sufficient to reimburse the bank for such services, or to make a fair charge for providing them.

We have some very interesting booklets entitled "Statement of Principles of Commercial Banking." You are welcome to ask for one at any time.
